

Living Christmas
Trees Are Popular
Feature for Yule

Celebrations around living Christmas trees, indoors and out, are becoming a popular Yule feature. Illumination of community Christmas trees was one of those good ideas that suddenly develop spontaneously in various places. Christmas tree lightings outdoors were first reported in 1913, with the first National Christmas tree ceremony held in 1924.

The idea of the living Christmas tree has another pleasing development — the living tree for the individual family. The custom is gaining in favor. Well-formed small evergreens "potted" in a tub or cask may be used indoors as Christmas trees and then planted outside following the Christmas season.

Lancaster Bred Champion

A LANCASTER COUNTY BRED ewe was the champion Hampshire ewe at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. She is Green Meadows 634, sired by Colonel Bullet, bred by Edward and Arthur Hess's Green Meadow Farms, Bareville, Route 1. The ewe is now owned and was shown by Deep Valley Farms, Piatt, Ill. Green Meadows did not show in this year's International because of their sale earlier this year.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said military expenditures in the next fiscal year might increase between $1,500,000,000 and $2 billion, or four to six per cent. He also forecast a reduction in the armed forces.

Q. I recently married a widower who has no children. He owns property and everything he possesses is in his name alone. In case of his death, am I entitled to anything? Also, if we should separate, is he required to support me if I am unable to work?
M. P.

A. If your husband predeceases you and you have not forfeited your right to share in his estate you will be entitled to

1. If he dies interstate and without issue, $10,000 in value and half the balance of his estate, and if he dies survived by no issue, parent, brother, sister, child of a brother or sister, grandparent, uncle or aunt, the entire estate.

2. If he dies testate and without issue, that which is provided for you in the will; or by taking against the will, half the estate.

As a general rule husbands are required to support their wives. However, if certain circumstances cause the separation, the wife may forfeit her right to support.

Q. My husband and I are separated and he is under a support order and I would like to know at what age he can take my child out for a visit. If there is no set age, would it be up to the probation officer to decide when?
E. W.

A. As long as your husband continues to pay you support for the child, he is entitled to visitation rights at regular intervals regardless of the age of the child. If you and your husband cannot reach any agreement on visitation, this dispute would be settled by the court or possibly by the court's domestic relations officer. Your husband also has the alternative of bringing a habeas corpus action against you in order to obtain a judicial determination of his visitation rights.

Q. How does a person up for indictment go about requesting

Corn Entries
To Be Judged
At Roundup

Ten ear corn samples and completed project record books will be judged Thursday at the Farm Bureau Cooperative to determine the winners of the annual Lancaster County 4-H Corn Club roundup.

Record books must be returned to the county agent's office by Wednesday. All yields should be figured in pounds rather than in bushels. The samples of corn must be at the cooperative by 9:30 a.m. the day of the roundup.

During the judging of exhibits a series of educational movies will be shown.

Henry Moon, assistant state 4-H Club leader will assist with the roundup. A potato judging practice is also scheduled during the morning an appearance before the Grand Jury considering his case? Does it require a Court Order or permission from the prosecuting attorney?

G. W. B

A. Under our Pennsylvania practice, a person charged with an indictable offense is not permitted to appear before the Grand Jury. With regard to an indictment, the Grand Jury's sole function is to determine whether the prosecution has a prima facie case against the defendant. In simple language, this means that if all the prosecution's evidence be regarded as true, it must be sufficient to prove the alleged crime. The Grand Jury does not determine guilt or innocence, nor is it concerned with any defense to the charge. Its primary function is to prevent captious and ill-founded charges from being prosecuted further.

When the Grand Jury finds a prima facie case, it returns a "True Bill," and the indictment is then referred to the Court and Petit Jury (a jury of twelve) to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused. If a prima facie case is not found, the Grand Jury returns "No True Bill" and that is the end of the case.
