A lung disease of cattle, pulmonary adenomatosis, appears to be increasing in rural areas where 'silo filler's disease' occurs in man. Nitrogen dioxide from decomposing fodder appears to be the cause of both conditions

THE STYLE REVIEW was the highlight of the 4-H Home Economics Round-up Thursday at Millersville State Teachers College. Peggy Weaver, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Weaver, Blue Ball, modeled an evening dress in a very unusual fabric. It is a beige sateen embroidered with brown and aqua. The slimming princess line of this gown is smart for the young figure. A brown bow and brown accessories have been chosen to complete her outfit. (LF Photo)

care

Glass expands with heat, contracts with cold, and often cracks or breaks when forced to do either too suddenly. This is why hot water should not be poured over glass in washing or rinsing. Instead, lay the glass gently in the water. It's also why glass shouldn't go directly from refrigerator to warm dishwasher, and why jars of food, hot from the canner, should not stand in a breeze to cool.

In making iced tea or coffee in the glass, pour the hot beverage in a china or pottery pitcher and then pour into glasses. Incidentally, ice cubes should not be dropped carelessly into glasses. The force of their fall may crack the glass.

To save glass from taking a rap in dishwashing, you can get circular rubber gadgets which fit over the end of faucets. Also rubber mats for the bottom of the sink or dishpan, or for counters on either side of the sink. Many women like rubber-covered dish drainers.

Follow the time-honored dishwashing rule "Glass first, silver second, china third." It prevents the nicks, chips and scratches which often result from a miscellaneous jumble in the dishpan. Glass gets first place because it needs clean suds with no trace of grease in order to come out clear and shining.

The less glass is handled, the less chance of breaking. Many women are finding that glasses will come out streakless without wiping if they are washed with synthetic detergents and rinsed in hot water.

Last but not least, save glassware with convenient, safe storage arrangements. Narrow shelves for tumblers allow each to stand separately with no stacking or doubling, and no reaching behind.
