Farm Show Committee Asking GSA To Reconsider Building Cancellation

The Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission has supported a request by the Farm Show Committee for the General State Authority to reconsider cancellation of a three-story building project adjacent to the Farm Show Arena.

The State Department of Agriculture and the Farm Show Commission were deprived of $692,000 through the GSA cancellation, according to a resolution adopted unanimously at the annual Fall meeting of the Farm Show Committee which is composed of delegates from 54 statewide agricultural and allied organizations.

Agriculture Secretary William L. Henning, chairman of the Farm Show Commission and Committee, explained that the original GSA allocation for reconstruction and repair of the Farm Show power plant, utility lines, a new roof for the large arena and the new building project amounted to $2,000,000. Financing, architecture and other charges reduced the amount available to approximately $1,500,000.

Allocations for utility line replacements left a balance of $942,000 for the roof and new building. GSA cancelled the building project and allocated $70,000 for the arena roof and $180,000 for paved walks "in certain areas around the (Farm Show) building."

These two items total $250,000 which is $692,000 less than remained in the Farm Show allocation when the GSA canceled the new building, estimated to cost approximately $2,000,000.

"This loss is disturbing to the farm organizations," Henning said. "They are requesting the GSA to allocate sufficient funds to assure early construction of the proposed new building needed for exhibit space, new cafeteria and dormitory facilities for farm youth engaged in required activities at the Farm Show and for the accommodation of the many other events for which the present buildings are rented by farm and non-farm organizations."

The Farm Show Committee elected to membership the Pennsylvania Farmers' Assn and the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Assn.

The date for the 1958 Farm Show is Jan 13-17.

Q I am 16 and married to a man 28. I have five brothers and sisters, ages 2 through 15. If anything happens to my parents and my husband and I wanted to take the children, would we have any trouble getting them because of my age? Being their next-of-kin, would I naturally become their legal guardian?
—R W

A It is quite possible that if you are able to provide a good home for your brothers and sisters on the death of your parents, you would have no trouble in obtaining custody of them. Should any of your brothers and sisters, however, inherit a substantial amount of money during their minority, it would then be necessary to have a guardian appointed by the court. One of the qualifications of such a guardian is that he must be at least 21 years of age.

Q If a wife refuses to have a child for her husband, is that grounds for divorce?—J W P

A. Refusal by a wife to have a child is not a ground for divorce in Pennsylvania. As to whether or not such a refusal constitutes an indignity to the person of the husband, the courts of Pennsylvania have decided that neither refusal of sexual intercourse nor refusal to bear children constitute such an indignity to the person as will warrant divorce.
