

County Florists Holding Show In Lancaster

The Lancaster County Florists Assn will open a five day flower show at Watt & Shand Co., Lancaster, starting Tuesday, Nov. 12. There will also be a fashion show with flowers Nov. 14.

The show will be in two parts at the department store.

Exhibits and arrangements will be displayed in a corner window with a new display daily. In the Fricidal Room daily exhibits will show some of the beautiful and novel effects that can be created by proper use and arrangement of floral pieces.

The fashion show is being held in conjunction with the Federated Womens Clubs of Lancaster. To be held at the Iris Club, North Duke St., Lancaster, there will be both an afternoon and evening performance.

Gowns will be from Watt & Shand.

Tennessee Test Shows Hogs Gain On Feather Meal

Experiments at the University of Tennessee show that either steamed or lime hydrolyzed feather meal is a satisfactory substitute for one-third to two-thirds of the soybean meal used in a swine ration.

The poultry processing industry now produces about 500,000 tons of feather meal a year and, according to animal husbandman O. Glen Hall of the University of Tennessee, hog growers might profitably consider feather meal as a source of protein for their hogs.

The feather meals used in the Tennessee tests also contained blood, added at the rate of a pound to 10 pounds of meal. The steam hydrolyzed meal analyzed 80 per cent protein, while a similar meal hydrolyzed with lime analyzed 73 per cent.

The pigs on feedlot test were fed round yellow corn, soybean oil meal, meat and bone meal, dehydrated alfalfa meal, minerals salt, and an antibiotic. The pigs getting feather meal were fed substitute diets containing one-third or two-thirds less of the soybean meal part of the ration.

Daily gains were found to average about 16 pounds per day for all pigs, whether or not they received feather meal.

Thus, Dr. Hall says, "On the basis of results to date, it looks as though hog producers can profitably substitute some steam hydrolyzed feather meal for soybean oil meal. Feather meal now costs from $5 to $10 a ton more than soybean oil meal," Hall says, "but it contains nearly double the protein."

It's The Law

"It's the Law" with simple answers is offered by LANCASTER FARMING in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Bar Association. General interest questions are welcomed, and will be answered as soon as possible. Letters must be signed. Answer will not be published on a specified, requested day. Questions cannot be answered by mail, and LANCASTER FARMING will reject any inquiry which is not of general public interest. Address all inquiries to "It's the Law," LANCASTER FARMING, Quarryville, Pa. (Fictitious initials will be used to protect the identity of the questions).

Two years ago I started to go with a married man. He was separated from his wife, but she will not give him a divorce. Six months ago I went to live with him. He stays with me only on week ends. I am going to have a baby. His wife found out we are living together but she doesn't know exactly where. She told him she is going to have my baby taken away from me. Can she have me put in jail and my child made a ward of the state? I am 19 and both my parents are dead.

A Under the laws of Pennsylvania governing your situation, it is sufficient to convict an unmarried woman of the crime of fornication to show that a child was born of her body. In Pennsylvania fornication is a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not exceeding $100. Under Pennsylvania law, you would not be subject to a jail sentence, nor could your baby be taken away from you in absence of proof that you are an unfit mother.

Q In the event of my husband's death, can his son by a former marriage make any claim on my husband's share of our home? The deed is in our joint names.

L E H.

A. In the event your husband's death's before you, his son by a former marriage would have no claim on your husband's interest in real estate owned jointly by you and your husband as tenants by the entirety. However, if you should predecease your husband, his son by a prior marriage would share in the distribution of your husband's estate which may well include your home.

Q I would like to know if it is true that you cannot make a Will if you have no children. My wife and I have a joint deed and a joint bank account. How long must the Will be made till it is legal? How many witnesses must you have, S J, Elizabethtown, R. D. 1, Pa.

A. You may make a Will whether you have children or not. It is valid as soon as signed by you. A will need not be witnessed in Pennsylvania, but two witnesses must attest to your signature as being your actual signature when it is offered for probate after your death. Any joint property will pass to the survivor when the first one dies.

Q A man and wife own property with an encumbrance of several thousand dollars. The property is in both names and the man doesn't care to keep his share. Can he deed it over to his wife if she is satisfied to assume all responsibility of the debt. Would deeding it in the wife's name give the wife the property and the debt? Would the man be free of the debt?

B. H. M.

A. The man could not free himself of the debt this easily, since he has given the mortgages (the individual or corporation holding the mortgage) his promise that he will jointly be responsible for its payment. Should the mortgage be willing to release the man from the debt, which is unlikely, then the procedure which you suggest could be accomplished. Otherwise, no.

Transition Period Good Time to Buy Storable Vegetables at Low Price

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 5 — Seasonal changes bring about rapid transitions in the produce industry. Producing areas have shifted from nearby to the most distant southern points in our country. This changeover most always results in benefitting the consumer, moneywise. Especially if they take advantage of the situation and purchase most of their storable vegetables now.

During the changeover in producing areas, what's left of the nearby vegetables including most especially root crops are generally at their lowest prices with enough good quality supplies available to make purchasing the remaining nearby stock worthwhile.

The consumer has during the past few months been used to buying nearby produce at moderate prices, with the taste and flavor usually associated with nearby produce. When changeover in areas take place, produce which is usually fast grown from the southern sections of our country, begins to arrive in our markets with the price tags high, mostly because of high handling charges, also without the proper taste and flavor of nature grown produce, the demand seems to lag.

This results in lower prices for the vegetables in the most surpluses from the distant points. Most vegetables are priced so low during this period that the grower generally sustains a loss in order to move the stock that should be sold in these changeover weeks. The consumer should take advantage of these changeover opportunities and purchase both nearby and distant grown produce at these now very reasonable prices.

There is a lengthy list of vegetable good buys this week consisting of: artichokes, beets, broccoli, brussel sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, potatoes, onions, peppers, radishes, sweetpotatoes, turnips and all types of leafy greens such as spinach, mustard, kale, collards, and various other types.

Best buys in fruit are apples with all the favorite varieties like delicious, macintosh, staymans, and many other varieties much lower than the three named. Western delicious generally very high at this time of the year are being auctioned at prices so low they practically meet the price of our local grown. Other good fruit buys are avocados, limes, cranberries, oranges, grapefruit and pears.

Thanksgiving is fast approaching and although to early to buy the vegetables for preparing salads and other dishes that traditionally surround the 'Turkey', it is not to early to purchase your supply of cranberries at this weeks low prices. They are mostly of the Early Black variety and are in generally good quality and condition.

GREIDER Super-Cross Leghorns

FOR

- ★ Consistently High Egg Production
- ★ Good Liveability
- ★ Better than average egg size
- ★ Best egg & shell quality — all year long

This picture shows our two 1957 Pa. contest pens together. They finished 4th & 9th and averaged 279 eggs per bird. Liveability was 100%. Eight of these hens laid over 300 eggs in 350 days.

Greiders are always among the top, both in state tests and on our customers' farms.

If you have never tried Greider leghorns, you may not know what high production with good egg size really is.
