They Sure Do!

A farmer was explaining to a city woman what a menace insects were to farm products—how potato bugs ruin potato crops and corn borers destroy corn. The woman listened attentively, then exclaimed, "And the poor dairy people! How the butterflies must bother them!"

Advertising is not bragging. It is merely a device to show buyers where they can get more for their money.

Poultry Women to Have Program At NEPPCO Show

HARRISBURG, Pa. — As the ladies of poultrydom have become full time partners to their poultry-raising husbands, no one wants to 'keep 'em down on the farm.'

To get them away from the farm, the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council (NEPPCO) has arranged a special ladies' program to be held in conjunction with its giant, three day exposition in the Farm Building, here Oct. 7-8-9.

A group bus tour to Boiling Springs, Pa., takes the lead-off spot in the agenda on Wednesday, Oct. 8, the second day of the big northeastern poultry get-together. Luncheon will be served at the Allenberry Inn—then the ladies will go on to the Allenberry Playhouse for a matinee performance of "The Happy Time." By early evening the ladies will be back in the central city in plenty of time to primp for the Council's annual dinner and dance.

Since most poultrymen will be flooding in from all corners of the Northeast for the entire three days of the exposition, this leaves the ladies with two free days. What will they do with it? They'll indulge in that principal preoccupation and avocation of all wives—shopping.

More than 5,000 poultrymen from the 14 northeastern states are expected to be in Harrisburg for the big event that will feature better than 160 commercial displays of equipment, supplies and services—plus a full-scale educational program.

GREIDER LEGHORN FARMS, Inc., Mt. Joy, Pa., has been named distributor in the Northeastern states for the Shaver Starcross 288, bred by the Shaver Poultry Breeding Farm, of Galt, Ontario, Canada. Pictured above are J. R. Greider, Jr. (left), of Greider Leghorn Farms, with Donald McQ. Shaver, at the Shaver offices located in Canada. The Greiders, Leghorn breeders themselves for many years, will discontinue their own breeding program, in favor of the Canadian strain-cross Leghorn bird.
