

County Rabies Clinics Scheduled for May 11-16

Pennsylvania Department of Health will cooperate in sponsoring a series of rabies clinics in Lancaster County the week of May 15, Dr Charles L. Wilbar, Jr, Secretary of Health, announced today.

The clinics, staged under the auspices of the Health Department's Lancaster District Medical Office and the Conestoga Veterinary Medical Association, are designed to immunize dogs against rabies with the objective of decreasing the need for the lengthy and expensive Pasteur treatment in persons bitten by rabid animals Dr Wilbar said.

Endorsed by the Lancaster City and County Medical Society, the 18 county and six city clinics will offer rabies shots for household pets at 50 cents each. The nominal charge is made as a public service by the Conestoga Veterinary Medical Association.

Dr Oscar Davis, District Medical Director of Lancaster County, and Dr J Harold Landis, president of the Conestoga Veterinary Medical Association, stated that the vaccination program was requested because 21 of the total 63 reported cases of the animal rabies in Pennsylvania during 1958 came from Lancaster County.

Dr Davis said that at least 20 Lancaster County residents suffering animal bites underwent the Pasteur treatment involving one shot a day for 14 days.

First Corn Is Planted

Harrisburg—Corn planting has started in Pennsylvania. The State Department of Agriculture said today that a few fields of corn have been planted in the extreme southeastern region of the State and that corn seedbed preparation is advancing in the remainder of the state.

Weather during the week ended Monday was generally seasonal, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. Freezes were reported in northern and mountainous portions of the Commonwealth while southern areas experienced generally mild weather.

Barley in many areas has suffered severely from winter kill. Some fields are being plowed under to be seeded to spring oats or corn. Winter wheat has come out of the dormant stage in good condition and is growing well in most areas.

Hay crops and pastures are green in all areas and growing rapidly in the southern and central counties. Pastures are well advanced for this time of year and cattle have been turned into them in the southern counties.

Spraying for spittle bug and alfalfa weevil is underway in these same counties.

Peaches are in full bloom in the south central region. Cherries are in blossom in the central section and peaches have fallen in the south.

Early apples are in blossom in the Adams-Franklin fruit belt and are in the pink stage in the central regions.

Some spinach, asparagus, and rhubarb is moving to market in southeastern counties. Vegetable farmers in this area are also setting cabbage plants.

Precipitation in Pennsylvania was generally a quarter to three-quarters of an inch, although almost two inches was reported in Venango County while only about a tenth of an inch fell in the extreme southeast.

Producers of feed can increase both quantity and grade of calves by increasing time by creep extension. Investigation by Ben Morgan, Pennsylvania State University, shows that creep building can be obtained from a variety of agents.
