

Lancaster Farming

Head Claims Transition Is Result; Cause Of Transition

Special to Lancaster Farming

es to the American Feed Manufacturers Assn., convention last week in Chicago elected seven members to the group's board of directors in naming two of their leaders to board posts.

Convention saw a record 2,904 registered delegates name W. E. Glennon, Chicago, as their president for the coming year. W. T. Diamond, Chicago was elected treasurer, C. B. Fretwell, Spartanburg, S. Caro., secretary, and I. S. Riggs, Chicago, chairman. Fretwell is the new officer, with the others reelected to their board members are: as Secretary of the Assn. of Agricultural Chemists, West Springfield, Mass.; J. C. Hammond, Delaware; F. T. and J. C. North, Minn.; Harry Hammond, Ind.; R. L. Dr. Orville G. Bentley, Springfield, Ill., Dean of the College of Agriculture, S. Dak. State College, was presented a $1,000 award for his artificial creation of digestive systems in the laboratory, providing new knowledge of animal digestion.

Identical awards went to Dr. Charles A. Lassiter, of Michigan State U., and Dr. Frederic W. Hill, Cornell U. Dr. Hill's award was for his work in poultry nutrition research. Dr. Lassiter was honored for his studies in dairy science, particularly calf nutrition.

Also attending the convention were 30 animal nutritionists, veterinarians and feed manufacturers from 11 European countries, present as guests of AFMA. The visitors were foreign delegates attend the first International Animal Feed Symposium, which opened in Wash., D.C. May 4 for three days, then were E. F. Dicary, Ill., Hermalsterville, Iowa; L. F. Van Stone, Texas. Bopst, Maryland, was cited during the 51st annual convention for more than 30 years of outstanding service.

(Turn to page 7)

WEDNESDAY RECAST

Weather Bureau, Chester Office will avg. about 3 inches of rain with chance of thundershowers. Cooler Mon.

Grange Outlines Legislative Program

SHOWN FOLLOWING the Grange Legislative Banquet at Chestnut Level are, from left, State Senator Edward Kessler, Legislator Norman Wood, Toastmaster Charles McSparran, Lancaster County Pomona Grange Master Loren Brittan and State Grange Master J. Collins McSparran, principle speaker for the event. —LF PHOTO

More than 100 members and special guests of Lancaster County and Fulton Granges attended the May 15 Legislative Banquet at Chestnut Level Church. Guests included State Senator Edward Kessler, Representative Norman Wood, members of various county Granges, the extension service and farm and civic groups.

J. Collins McSparran, Peach Bottom farmer and Master of Pennsylvania Grange, was principal speaker, discussing Grange legislative policy on state issues.

Following this discussion, Senator Kessler and Rep. Wood spoke briefly concerning the problems confronting the General Assembly in the current session.

McSparran stressed the Grange stand favoring legislation to require approval of the Pa. Secretary of Agriculture of regulations and ordinances by county health departments affecting the production and distribution of farm products.

"This," he claimed, "would provide farmers the safeguard of having someone familiar with the problems of farming in a position to prevent indiscriminate regulation of the state's agriculture by outsiders."

He also dwelled upon the Grange stand calling for the Secretary of Agriculture's approval of regulations, for the supervision and regulation of farm labor, coming from the Dept. of Labor and Industry.

Other legislative programs the Grange is supporting are: Extension of the Northampton-Allegheny-Act to cover all counties.

Extension of the "Pure Seed Law" to cover package sales of less than 10 lbs.

Removal of the $5 license fee on bulk milk tanks and bulk milk dispensers, (referred to as a nuisance tax.)

Establishment of a program for testing of individual water supplies by the State Dept. of Health.

(Turn to page 7)

Legal Hi Future Farmers Play Host to Parents

WITNESS OAK FFA Queen Millie Arnold, left, and Sweetheart Jean Collier, right, join in congratulating Donald Musser, second from left, and Abner Wolgemuth, Mount Joy in their recognition as Honorary members of the Donegal chapter. The award is the privilege from an FFA chapter and was presented by all chapter officers. —LF PHOTO

SHOWN AFTER naming of award winners for Witness Oak FFA chapter are, from left—Front Row, Donald Musser, dairy award; Queen's Attendant Ardis Wolgemuth, and Jim Gingrich, farm mechanics winner. Back Row: Barry Stoner, corn production award; Luke Brubaker, Chapter Star Farmer, and Dean Hoffer, State FFA president. —LF PHOTO

high schools' Witness Oak FFA chapter members last week were the annual Parent-Teacher subject matter the Penn State agriculture education, as principal then presented an illustrated talk of his recent two year stay in the Philippine Republic as a Stanford University project staff member. The banquet was highlighted by the presentation of member awards to a quartet of Witness Oak members, by Advisor G. M. Miller. Luke Brubaker, chapter president, was honored as Chapter Star Farmer, Barry Stoner, chapter vice-president, claimed the Pioneer high-corn-production trophy for a 1958 crop of 136 bushels per acre. Donald Musser received the 1959 Dairy award, and comments by State FFA Jim Gingrich was announced as Farm Mechanics award winner.

The program also included the 1959 Dairy award, and comments by State FFA President Dean Hoffer, Mannheim and presentation of the Chapter Sweetheart jacket to Jean Collier, Donegal senior.