

When sauce is made by pouring unsulphured molasses over vanilla ice cream. Serve plain or with chopped nuts, flaked coconut, crushed pineapple, or chopped maraschino cherries.

Molasses Butterscotch Sundae Sauce
 ½ cup unsulphured molasses
 1 cup sugar
 ¼ teaspoon salt

Combine unsulphured molasses, sugar, salt, and water in saucepan. Cook for 10 minutes or until candy thermometer registers 230 degrees F., or when a small amount dropped in very cold water forms a soft ball. Add butter and vanilla.

For the Farm Wife and Family

Cool slightly; stir in evaporated milk. Pour over ice cream. If desired, top with chopped nuts and whipped cream. In storage, if sauce becomes too thick, thin with small amount of water or evaporated milk. Makes one cup.

Blend together and spoon over ice cream. For a practical touch, top with pecan halves. Makes one cup.

Taffy-Honey Sauce
 ½ cup unsulphured molasses
 ½ cup honey

Form one quart vanilla or chocolate ice cream into balls, using an ice cream scoop or two spoons. Roll the ice cream balls in two cups crushed hollow-type peppermint stick candy. Serve topped with chocolate sauce and mint sprig garnish.

The Ice Cream Cone

Fifty-five years ago, at the World's Fair in St. Louis, the ice cream cone was born. The ice cream cone, as we know it today, developed along two patterns; the rolled cone and the molded cone.

The rolled product was a baked waffle in round shape which was at first rolled by hand, later mechanically, as soon as it came off the griddle. In a few seconds, it hardened in the form of the crisp cone that is known today.

A Rocket Cones are fun to make: Use a slice of brick ice cream for a base. Then place a scoop of ice cream in a cone and set it, with the cone pointing skyward, on the ice cream base.

The molded cone was shaped in one of two ways; either the batter was poured into a shell and a core inserted on which the cone was formed in a mold which was split so that the cone on the form or pin could be removed without difficulty.

Place a red gumdrop on the ice cream scoop for a firing point and a toothpick inserted at the point of the cone for an antenna. Serve in a flash.

Whether this edible ice cream container is rolled or rolled or molded, you can be certain that it will be doubly delicious when heaped with giant scoops of your

B. Cones A-Clowning are sure to win the kiddies hearts: Use a pineapple ring as a collar or base. Place a large scoop of vanilla ice cream atop the ring for a head.

Then fashion a face, using candy-coated chocolate for
