CONTROL POND WEEDS

Owners of farm ponds having a weed problem can get instructions on control from their county agricultural agent, says Robert Wingard, Penn State extension wildlife management specialist. A permit obtained from the local fish warden is required to use chemicals for weed control in the pond.

Here are some suggestions for some easy "deluxe" pancakes:

1. Peach Pancakes — Add 1 cup drained, chopped, canned peaches to above batter. Bake; serve hot with syrup.
2. Jelly-Filled Pancakes: Butter hot pancakes; spread with a tart jelly or jam and roll up. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.
3. Blueberry Pancakes — Add 1 cup fresh or drained frozen or canned blueberries to batter. Bake; serve with butter and brown sugar.
4. Ham and Cheese Pancakes—Add 1 cup coarsely chopped cooked ham and 1/2 cup grated cheese to batter. Bake; serve with raisin sauce.
5. Pimento Pancakes—Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento and 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper to batter. Bake; serve with cheese sauce.
6. Pancake Meat Rolls — Add 1 small onion (minced), 1 cup finely chopped cooked beef or chicken to batter. Bake. Sprinkle cakes with 2

1. Heat griddle slowly over medium heat while you mix the batter. Temperature is just right when a few drops of water sprinkled on the surface dance around a second before evaporating. If your griddle has a thermometer, it should register 400 degrees to 425 degrees.

2. Add milk all at once. Stir batter until the pancake mix is fairly smooth; be careful not to overmix. Small lumps which remain will disappear in baking. They help make the pancakes light and fluffy. For perfect pancakes and buckwheats, follow the easy baking hints on pancake mix package.

3. For an even brown, use a griddle that has been lightly greased with an unsalted shortening. Pour batter on griddle from pitcher or measuring cup. (For medium-sized cakes use 1/4 cup of batter.) Turn pancakes when tops are covered with tiny bubbles and the edges look cooked. Turn only once. Do not pat the cakes. Serve "hot off the griddle."
