

Co. Grange Elects

Richard Maule, Quarryville R2 dairyman, was elected master of Lancaster County Pomona Grange at the meeting Thursday evening. Maule, long active in the work of the Colerain Grange, is at present gate keeper in that lodge.

Other officers elected along with Maule for the '60 term are: Paul Uible, Ephrata Grange, overseer; Marie Murphy, Fulton Grange, lecturer; Robert Armstrong, Fulton, steward; Henry Wenger, Colerain, chaplain; Morton Fry, Ephrata, assistant steward; Gladys Eby, Salisbury Grange, secretary; Charles G. McSparran, Fulton, treasurer; Joseph Hess, Colerain, gate keeper; Mrs. Susan Hess, Colerain, Ceres; Mabel Brabson, Fulton, Pomona; Catherine Wanner, Salisbury, Flora; Laura McSparran, Fulton, lady assistant steward.

In other action the Pomona Grange adopted two resolutions seeking stricter enforcement of the anti-litter law and supporting a bill for permissive Bible reading. The resolutions read as follows:

Resolution 1: "Whereas the farmers of our county have been plagued with beer, whiskey bottles, cans and other forms of litter being thrown from passing autos. And whereas said litter often causes death of farm animals, injury to implements, etc. Be it resolved Lancaster County, Pomona 71, urge a better enforcement of our litter law."

Resolution 2: "Whereas Reps. Wood and Eshleman have introduced a bill in our State Legislature making it permissible to continue the practice of reading the Bible and repeating the Lord's Prayer in the opening exercises of our schools. And whereas this country was founded on religious principles with a deep respect for Almighty God. Be it resolved that Lancaster County Pomona 71 meeting in regular session give our wholehearted support to this legislation."

CHEESE BUYING TIP

Soft, unripened cheeses, such as cottage and cream, are perishable. Buy only the amount of unripened cheese the family will use in a few days and keep it refrigerated in a tightly covered container.

Program for Youths A Stock Show Is Expanded

Junior activities at the Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition have been increased this year, John B. McCool, show director said today.

McCool said that the largest segment of farm youth to participate in the three year-old open livestock show November 9 through 13 will be 4-H Light Horse and Pony Club members competing in their first state-wide round-up, Monday, November 9.

Vocational agriculture students membership of Future Farmers of America Chapters, are to be special guests of the "Keystone International" Wednesday, November 11. In their field trip to the Farm Show Buildings, the Future Farmers will see some of the finest breeding cattle, swine and sheep in the United States. They also will see how some of the country's top commercial breeders are producing animals that are free of excessive fat, but still make fast, economical gains in the feed lots.

In addition, 86 junior exhibitors will be participating in the junior steer show. Most of these youngsters have been feeding steers, some of them for more than a year, especially for the Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition. They are hoping for a share in the $80,000 premiums being offered as owner of the grand champion steer can look forward to a fat purse when animal is auctioned November 13, at the close of the show.

A total of 312 birds have entered 2,868 head of beef cattle, swine and sheep in the Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition. The show this year is the largest indoor show in the
