A temperature of about 35 to 40 degrees with about 85 per cent humidity is about right for home storage. Most of our basements are not too well suited for vegetable storage because they are so warm and dry. Special construction of an insulated storage room may be necessary if you're going to store vegetables each year. Store only those vegetables which lend themselves to the conditions you have. Don't try to store everything.

Don't forget to check your vegetables periodically for spoilage during the storage season.
