SCD Approves Six Plans

The applications of six new cooperators for conservation plans on 470 acres were approved by the Lancaster County Soil Conservation District Directors at their regular monthly meeting in the court house on Monday night.

The newly approved plans bring to a total of 1927 the cooperators in the district. Since January 1 of this year 100 new plans have been approved. This compares to the 82 plans approved to the same date during 1959.

Henry Givler, chairman of the Plowing Contest committee reported that the Lancaster County Farm Machinery Dealers Association has offered to cooperate in staging the event. Details of the contest and entry procedure will be made public at a later date.

Martin Muth, Work Unit Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, introduced Mr. Amares Bose, Deputy Conservator of Forests in West Bengal, Province, India. Mr. Bose will observe conservation work in the county for four weeks before going on to Tennessee and Mississippi for further study.

Plans were approved for the following farmers: Tobias S. Denlinger, Strasburg R1, 22 acres, Strasburg Twp; David P. Hess, Pequea R1, 143 acres, Martic Twp; Aaron Zimmerman, East Earl R1, 71 acres, Brecknock Twp; Paul G. Book, Lancaster R7, 40 acres, West Lampeter Twp; Richard N. Myers, of Elizabethtown R1, 44 acres, Conoy Twp; Daniel R. Stoner, Denver R2, 145 acres in West Cocalico Twp.

Dumping Waste Is Unlawful Farmers Told

Dumping of waste oil and other toxicants, even in isolated spots, can create public health hazards and pollute streams, John Durr, Regional Sanitary Engineer, of the state health department's Reading office, said today.

Durr said the department has been receiving complaints of sneak dumping of waste oil and even insecticides used in orchard and road spraying.

"If such discharges reach any stream, they will contaminate the water," Durr said. "This is in violation of the clean streams law and local health ordinance nuisance laws."

The state health representative said the department will investigate any reports of dumping of this type. He said information on license numbers, description of truck and time and place of the dumping would assist the investigators.

He urged anyone who sees or knows of such dumping to immediately notify the Reading regional office of the state health department. Counties covered by the regional office in Reading include Berks, Carbon, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Montour, Northampton, Northumberland, Schuylkill, Snyder and Union. Persons can write the regional sanitary engineer at P. O. Box 3247, Reading, or call FRanklin 3-5175.

NEED RICH SOIL

Vine crops such as cucumbers, squash, pumpkins, and muskmelons, do best on a rich loam soil containing plenty of organic matter, explains Jas. Dutt, Penn State vegetable extension specialist. They also need plenty of fertilizer and control of insects. If irrigation is needed, do it in daytime.

More Proof... It Pays to Feed PURINA

Willow Glen Farm's Purina-fed Sow Herd

John Hess and Joe Lititz, owners, of Willow Glen Farm, R. D. 1, Strasburg.

Big Healthy Litters

During February, March, and April of this year, 29 first-litter gilts farrowed at Willow Glen Farm. They weaned an average of 9 pigs apiece — big pigs which averaged 2.62 pounds at birth! Their new farrowing house has 30 metal stalls designed and built by Joe and John. Sows leave these stalls twice daily for feed, water, and exercise. Pigs stay here to 3 weeks of age.

. . . And Fast, Early Growth!

This group of 10-12 week-old gilts will average 70 pounds or better. All are candidates for foundation stock. Some will stay at Willow Glen Farm. Others will move into commercial herds.
