CHECK EQUIPMENT NOW FOR FREEZING LATER

Plan now while your garden is growing for the freezing you want to do later in the summer. Check to see what equipment you have left from last year. You may have some boxes or plastic bags which were left over. You will need a blancher for putting food in boiling water. A collander or sieve will work as long as the pieces of food won't go through the holes. Use about one quart of vegetables to one gallon of water so you'll need a large enough container for the water too. If you use plastic bags to put your food in for freezing, you'll need something to seal the bags. Pipe cleaners will work and of course, so will the regular sealing rubber bands which are sold for freezing. Regular rubber bands such as the kind you get around newspapers are not tempered and they may break under freezing conditions. If they break, you won't have an air-tight closure.

Best Food Buys Shop With Dad In Mind

Area food shoppers will have Dad in mind as they plan the menus for this Father's Day week-end. Bargain buys at the local food store will make it possible for you to please both his appetite and his wallet, reports Tom Piper, Penn State Marketing Agent. Wholesale beef prices fell sharply last week resulting in more competitive retail pricing on chuck roasts, rib roasts, and boiling beef. Steaks will be in heavy demand this week-end and will be featured in some stores at prices below those of recent weeks. Steady to higher prices are anticipated for fryers, although some stores will feature this item for bar-b-ques. Dairy month price concessions. If they break, you won't have an air-tight closure.

Changes on eggs in some markets are the only changes noted on eggs this weekend. Supplies continue heavy with large eggs continuing as a good buy. June is Dairy Month and many markets will be featuring cheese or other milk products in the dairy department. More fresh fruits and vegetables are in the best buy class this week than at any other time since last summer. Supplies from nearby areas provide the highest quality at greatly reduced prices. Cool, wet weather has prolonged the strawberry harvest, assuring ample supplies of this tasty fruit for use in preserves or for freezing this week. The first of the local sweet cherry crop is appearing at road-side markets. Watermelons and cantaloupes are available at lower prices as shipments increase from Arizona. White Georgia peaches are available and while prices are not yet low, they are drifting down. Good to outstanding vegetable buys this week include lettuce, cabbage, onions, sweet corn, radishes, green beans, cucumbers, peppers and leafy greens. Prices on new potatoes have dropped substantially as the first cobbler arrive from producing areas along the Eastern shore.

CREEP FEEDING PAYS
Creep feeding of beef calves returns an average of two dollars for each dollar invested in feed, says Ben Morgan, Penn State extension livestock specialist. Creep-fed calves weigh more at weaning time and are one grade higher.
