

try. ur other tanks were damaged by night as 250 city firemen 28 engine and four ladder companies joined 200 night shift employees in fighting the blaze. Two fireboats and a firefighting unit from the naval base were on hand. Although the tanks were grounded and protected by lightning rods, Charles B. Dietz, general manager of the plant, said he believed the fire was started during a lightning strike. Chief George F. ...

Art Museum Schedules Film Show Tomorrow
The first film evening of the season will be held tomorrow by the Allentown Art Museum. "Hamlet," starring Laurence Olivier, will be given for members and guests. ...

Surprise Factors
computer can even introduce "surprise" factors. Like a ...

Today's Specials
'55 CHEVROLET .. $795
S.A. 4 dr. R.H., std. shift.
'55 FORD $695
Custom V8 2 dr. R.H., std.

Netherlands Minister to Speak Here Sunday
The Rev. J. N. Richardson of the Netherlands will be the speaker at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the ...

TV Uses Schoolhouse
DALLAS — A little red schoolhouse in Dallas is being used as the site of the city's new educational television station. ...

Opening Doors
study is an important in in this age of ...

Legislator A Probe of Cra
ROSLYN, N.Y. (AP) Steven L. McCarthy called day night for an immediate congressional probe into the ...

NEWSPAPERS . . .

The building blocks for progress

Did you ever realize that the Lancaster Farming, the newspaper that you are at this moment reading, is a very important building material? In a very real way it helps build the homes, stores, farms and factories in your area.

There is the lesser fact that its columns tell where to get the brick and mortar, steel and rivets. Far more important it tells you, more than any other single source, how the local economy is progressing and where new job opportunities are developing. These are the real foundations on which homes, stores, farms and factories must be built.

Also, your newspaper helps you make up your mind where to buy the food you eat, the clothes you wear, the appliances you use and the cars you ride in.

From its columns, too, you largely determine your opinion of new laws and for whom you'll vote. From its reports you'll also fashion your personal estimates on how well America fares in the critical interplay of events on the international scene.

Truly your newspaper is the building material of progress.

In this are great responsibilities: A responsibility for the truth. A responsibility for freedom from pressures. A responsibility for taking sides, and presenting fairly and forcibly the viewpoint from the side taken. All of these things help make up "freedom of the press."

National Newspaper Week gives each of us an excellent opportunity to express our appreciation for a task well done.

