Meats May Retail Higher

Lagging demand for sirloin and round steaks, rump and rib roasts, has resulted in reduced price tags on these choice cuts, observes Tom Piper, Penn State Extension Marketing Agent.

Prices have advanced on poultry and fresh pork items but specials on these items will appear in some stores which purchased supplies before prices went up. Lamb continues as a good buy item as supplies reach a seasonal high.

The turkey market is holding steady at prices above those of last year. Turkey supplies are ample and will remain so through out the coming holiday season.

Freezing temperatures have terminated most produce supplies from local producing areas. Some items are still available from local storage facilities but the bulk of our supplies are now arriving from California and Florida. Heavy rain fell in the California producing area last week, causing a temporary reduction in supplies and thus forcing prices up on lettuce, celery and tomatoes.

Cabbage, onions, carrots, and turnips lead the short list of good buys in vegetables. Peppers, cauliflower, green beans, Brussel sprouts, broccoli, and leafy greens are reasonably priced but because of transportation charges from distant producing areas will be higher in price.

Sweet potato harvest is nearing completion and prices will be advanced on this item as it appears kiln dried from storage. Storage charges must likewise be included in the prices for white potatoes but ample supplies will keep this commodity on the list of good buys.

Cranberries, Emperor grapes and apples are the better buys at the fruit counter. Banana prices are generally unchanged from week ago. Although quality has improved on grapefruit and oranges, a strong processor demand is serving to keep the prices on the high side.

Grasses are heavy users of nitrogen. Legumes such as alfalfa or clover boost the nitrogen supply when grown with grass.

Crop rotations which include good sods and thus supply highly essential organic matter are the best approach to an efficient soil building program, declares James H. Eakin, Jr., extension agronomist at Penn State. He emphasizes that rotation should provide for at least a third of the crop land to be in sod at all times, and the fields fertilized according to the rotation used. Every acre of cropland needs an annual application of fertilizer.

Growing HEIFERS and Dry COWS need

Wayne FITTING RATION

Wayne Fitting Ration produces rugged, full-bodied heifers that are thrifty and ready to breed at an early age. Fitting Ration helps the dry cow replace flesh lost during the previous lactation and puts her in top condition to start the new milking period at a high level of production.

Bred heifers and dry cows must receive a highly nutritious ration in order to build the unborn calf. Wayne Fitting Ration supplies vitamins, minerals, proteins and energy needed to drop thick strong-boned calves.

In a test at the Wayne Research Farm, well fitted Holsteins produced 1720 lbs. more milk and 83 lbs. more fat than when not properly fitted.
