

Best Food Buys Weather Effects Prices

Unseasonably warm weather in recent weeks has been a source of pleasure to residents of Southcentral Pennsylvania, observes Tom Piper, Penn State Extension Marketing Agent, but at the same time has had a depressing influence on the sale of fresh vegetables at the local food market. The extended growing season has provided many home gardeners with supplies of endive, kale, spinach, cauliflower, celery, carrots and turnips which ordinarily would be purchased at retail stores in this season of the year.

Current fresh produce bargains include celery, lettuce, cabbage, spinach, cucumbers, cauliflower, radishes, onions and both sweet and white potatoes. Broccoli, Brussels sprouts and leafy greens share the good buy position. Tomatoes and carrots head the list of higher priced items which also includes peppers, green beans and sweet corn. Prices on fresh oranges have dropped some at wholesale; Grapefruit prices hold steady at levels established last week. Shoppers will find small sizes to offer the most value for the money in the weeks ahead.

Cranberries, Emperor grapes and apples continue to share the spotlight for values at the fruit counter. More than half the 1960 apple crop has already been consumed in fresh form or sold to processors.

Beef and pork roasts will be featured at most meat counters this weekend. Look for chuck roasts and club steaks of beef as well as pork loins, center cut chops and fresh picnics at reasonable prices. Lamb continues in plentiful supply at bargain prices.

4-H'ers Report From Chicago

The editor of Lancaster Farming has received communication from the Lancaster County delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Miss Sara Lee Bradley, of Holtwood R1, writes that she and Miss Jean Kauffman of Drumore are enjoying the trip to the windy city. Misses Bradley and Kauffman won the trip to the annual 4-H event when they took first place in the foods demonstration contest during judging and demonstration days at the Pennsylvania State University earlier this year.

Sara Lee reports they are meeting other 4-H members from many other states and

Pa. 4-H Boy Is Tops In U.S.

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 2—Robert S. Barr, 18-year-old Centre county boy, last night received the top achievement award in the nation at the 39th National 4-H Club Congress. He received a chest of sterling silverware awarded by President Eisenhower, at the annual banquet closing the Congress.

In addition, Barr was selected as one of six 4-H members who will report to the President next March during 4-H Club Week, on 4-H accomplishments.

Barr, a Penn State freshman, had previously been named winner of a Ford Motor Company scholarship of $400 for 4-H Achievement and had won an expense-paid trip to the Congress as winner of Pennsylvania's Achievement Award.

At the Club Congress Barr served as toastmaster at a luncheon for the nearly 1,800 delegates and chaperons attending from all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

Barr is the son of the David S. Barrs, who operate a 350-acre farm on Port Matilda R D 1.

Seeing the sights in Chicago, including a snowstorm on Tuesday of this week.

The girls will return to the county during the week end.

Milk Hearing Is Postponed

The joint public hearing to consider amending fluid milk prices in northeastern markets scheduled to open in New York City Dec. 6 has been postponed.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced the postponement was requested by representatives of major producer groups in the market. Subject of the hearing was the relationship of Class I price levels in the seven northeastern markets to each other and to midwest manufacturing milk prices. The markets are Boston, Springfield, Worcester, Connecticut, Southeastern New England (Rhode Island and part Massachusetts), New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia and Wilmington.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clarence L. Millard said "The postponement should provide the cooperatives and others sufficient time to prepare for this extremely important hearing."

A registered Guernsey cow, Penn Del Georgia An owned by R. F. and L. Witmer, Willow Street Pa has completed an official DHIR production record of 12,140 pounds of milk and 668 pounds of fat. "Anne" senior four year-old was milked two times daily for 305 days while on test.
