Two Guernsey Bulls At SPABC Resummarized

Two registered Guernsey bulls owned by Southeastern Pennsylvania Artificial Breeding cooperative have become Resummarized Sires, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

The bulls are Golden Harvest King Cole, bred by F. W. McCann, Bridgewater, Connecticut, and McDonald Pre Nugget, bred by the Estate of J. M. McDonald, of Cortland, New York.

"Cole", now has 22 daughters with 31 official production records. Their average production is 12,198 lbs. of milk and 633 lbs. of fat, when converted to a twice-daily milking, 305-day, mature equivalent basis.

This bull's sire was Gardenville Rose King and it's dam was Blakeford Colleen that posted an official production record of 15,612 lbs. of milk and 863 lbs. of fat.

"Cole", also has had 20 of his registered daughters classified with an average rating of Desirable.

"Nugget", now has 28 daughters with 66 official production records. Their average production is 10,260 lbs. of milk and 495 lbs. of fat, when converted to a twice-daily milking, 305-day, mature equivalent basis.

This bull's sire was McDonald Farms Prediction and it's dam was Klondike Hollifaith, that posted an official production record of 13-655 lbs. of milk and 701 lbs. of fat.

"Nugget", also has had 26 of his registered daughters classified with an average rating of Desirable.

will be a film strip called "The Market of the 60's", prepared for Life Magazine and presented by the Lancaster County Extension Service.

A part of the prepared introduction to the film strip says, "Individual gains, income, buying power, higher living standards will be made possible not by collective efforts of industry or a company but by individual productivity"

At the meeting, scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m., officers for the coming year will be elected. Working committees will report on progress, including a report on the progress of the new Agricultural Center.

Program committee chairman is Richard E. Green.

WINTERIZE TRACTORS

Failure to winterize tractors can cost cold cash, warn Burton S. Horne, extension agricultural engineer. A few hours of attention before winter arrives can save both money and trouble.

Large Chick Hatch

Benson Sees Lower Egg Prices

December hatchings of egg type chicks will be about 40 to 50 percent above last December, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson warned today, citing figures from the latest hatchery report.

Fearing that this is indicative of a trend toward unduly large increases in coming months, the Secretary said that likely consequences of such large hatchings — if not soon tempered — would be to sharply expand egg marketings after mid-1961, and thus to weaken egg prices.

The USDA monthly hatchery report issued Dec. 15th, summarizing activities in the approximately 4,200 commercial hatcheries in the United States, showed that on Dec. 1 there were 43% more eggs in incubators for the production of egg-type chicks. The increase thus indicated for hatchings in the first three weeks of the month would follow an increase of 27 percent — 50 million chicks — in the preceding seven months.

While the percentage increase in those months was large, it occurred mostly during a period of seasonal small hatchings. In coming months, hatchings will rise to a seasonal peak, and even modest percentage increases in those months will create large increases in terms of numbers of chicks. USDA had previously indicated that springtime increases beyond 10 percent in the number of chickens raised would be a cause for concern.

"Egg prices have been favorable in recent weeks," the Secretary said "However, if the indicated increases are not tempered, they will react to the disadvantage of egg producers" in the most recent test." Dr. Clarkson added that current information indicates that the percentage of brucellosis infection in commercial dairy herds has dropped to .014 per cent this year.

Pennsylvania is modified as brucellosis-free by the federal government. This certification was granted March 13, 1958, when fewer than 1 per cent of the cattle and 5 per cent of the herds in the state were infected with brucellosis.

Presently two counties are certified as brucellosis free. In Philadelphia and Monroe County, recent tests have shown that fewer than 1 per cent of the herds and 2 per cent of the cattle are infected with the disease.

PENNA. TREES

Do you have a Pennsylvania-grown Christmas tree in your home this year? Alvi O. Voigt, extension marketing specialist, says Pennsylvania is the biggest producer of plantation-grown Christmas trees in the United States, and he reports 1,600,000 of these trees moved through the markets of the state this year.
