Fertilizer Is First Importance In Lawn Care

Dollar for dollar, fertilization will do more to improve a poor lawn than any single management practice say turf specialists.

Grass plants need nitrogen, phosphorus and potash for good growth these experts point out and recommend a complete fertilizer containing all three elements. Phosphorus and potash are both slowly available. For best results choose a fertilizer with most of the nitrogen in the slowly available form. Some lawn care specialists recommend a fertilizer with 75 percent of the nitrogen from ureaform. The only fertilizer generally available containing this amount of ureaform is a 10-5-5. Apply 30 to 40 pounds of fertilizer per thousand square feet with a spreader to get uniform coverage. It is best to apply fertilizer when the grass is dry to avoid "burning" tender growth. But if the grass is damp when you apply the fertilizer water the lawn thoroughly to wash the fertilizer from the grass leaves. By following a regular lawn feeding program, you can eliminate or reduce disease and weed problems.

● Vaccinate Pigs

More than 5,000 outbreaks of hog cholera were reported last year in 46 States and Puerto Rico. There is no cure for the disease which affects hogs only but available vaccines are effective and safe when properly used.

Spring is the peak season for vaccinating against hog cholera. Pig should be vaccinated about 2 weeks after weaning. At this age they are easily handled and will be protected before shipment.

Costs Increase

Marketing costs now account for more than half the retail price of farm-produced foods, says Harold Neigh, extension consumer information specialist at Penn State. And, he believes these costs will continue to rise in the years ahead. Although transportation costs will be fairly stable, many of the other costs, such as labor, taxes, advertising, and packaging materials will continue to go up.
