First Year Club Members Win Electric Roundup

Sixteen electric club members, most of them first year 4-H clubbers, exhibited projects they constructed at the roundup of the club Monday night in the Little Britain Elementary School.

Basing his judging on safety, originality, neatness, workmanship and time involved, judge Ralph Patterson, extension agriculture engineer from the Pennsylvania State University gave first place award to Forest Preston III, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Preston II, Oxford R2.

Runner up in the judging was Linda Gayle Barnes, the 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Barnes, Kirkwood R1. Miss Barnes also placed third in total project score.

Larry Brubaker Wins 4-H Capon Roundup

Larry Brubaker, Mount Joy R1, took both top prizes Tuesday at the Elizabethtown-Mt Joy 4-H Capon Club roundup at Hostetter's banquet hall.

Brubaker scored a perfect 20 points in the exhibit phase of the contest and added a 93.5 total project score to take the blue ribbon in that phase of the contest.

His nine pound exhibit bird was purchased for $5.85 by Joseph Shaeffer, a member of the sponsoring Mount Joy Rotary Club.

Larry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Brubaker, in his fourth year of 4-H Capon club work, began on May 14th with started, 1-week-old banded rock capons.

Runner up in both phases of the roundup was Virginia Wivell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wivell, Columbia R1. In her five years of work in the capon club Virginia has won two first place awards and three seconds — including Tuesday's placing.

Virginia's eight pound exhibit was purchased by Henry Carpenter for $5.20. She started her project on April 16, with day old Vantress Cross cockerels.

Running a close second in the exhibit contest, Miss Wivell scored a 19.5. Her project score was 98.3 out of a possible 100 points.

CVA Directors Postpone Meet

The board of directors of Conestoga Valley Association have voted to postpone the re-organizational meeting from December to January.

The decision was reached at a Wednesday night meeting of the association in the Production Credit building on Roseville Road.

The January 30 meeting will also serve as a membership re-organization meeting with the idea of reviewing the duties and activities of the directors, president John Kitch said.

"We must review the work of all directors in the CVA," he said, "so a few do not have to carry the entire load."

Of the watersheds 33 directors, Kitch pointed out, an average of only 12 attend board meetings regularly.

Guernsey Ass'n Elects Officers

Directors of the Lancaster County Guernsey Breeders Association reelected all the officers of the organization at a Monday night meeting in the home of Harry S. Mumma, Manheim R1.

Mumma was returned to the post of president, and Ellis Denlinger, Gordonville R1, will continue as vice president. James B. Lefever,

County 4-H Council To Exchange Visits With New York Clubbers

A unique exchange tour with 4-H club members in New York state is being planned by the members of the Lancaster County 4-H Council.

The local council has been invited to send a delegation of 10 or 15 "older 4-H members" to live with 4-H families in Onondaga County for the last week end in December. The exchange will be completed next summer when the local clubs will invite a like number of club members to visit the Garden Spot.

The contingent will leave here sometime on the morning of December 28, a Friday,

Pennsylvania Young Farmers Will Hold Convention Next Week

The outstanding young farmer in Pennsylvania will be announced at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association November 28 at the Pennsylvania State University.

The winner of this top award comes from more than 500 young farmers enrolled in 21 chapters composing the state association. James C. Fink, State supervisor of agricultural education and advisor to the organization, will present the top award.

This annual state convention promotes leadership and provides an opportunity for young farmers to exchange ideas with each other, announces Alfred Overly, of

FIVE-DAY WEATHER FORECAST

Temperatures during the next five days are expected to average 2 to 5 degrees below the normal range of 33 at night to 50 in the afternoon. Mild weather Saturday will give way to cooler Sunday, turning milder again Monday, colder Tuesday and warmer again by Wednesday. High and low pressure areas moving rapidly from West to East cause fluctuations in day to day temperatures. Precipitation is likely to total less than a tenth of an inch falling mainly as rain or some scattered snow showers, mostly over the mountains, Saturday. Some light snow or rain Saturday morning is expected to give way to clearing skies later in the day locally.
