There is a simple way, say the scientists, to avoid having a herd full of calf producers like cow A. Choose replacement heifers that were heaviest at weaning.

Jap. Beetles May Increase Next Few Years

HARRISBURG — Japanese beetle infestation, little changed this year in Pennsylvania from 1961, may continue to hold its own unless intensive and concerted eradication measures can be adopted, Dr. Thomas L. Givton, director of the Bureau of Plant Industry, State Department of Agriculture said today.

The beetles overwinter in the grub stage in the ground, feeding on grass roots in the fall and spring. They change to beetles in early summer, emerging as golden green, hard shelled adults, ready to devour roses and other flowers and foliage. The grubs can be killed in the ground by use of insecticides, some of which are effective for several years. However, beetles emerging from untreated plots can easily infest the treated areas above ground.

George B. Sleesman, bureau entomologist who directed the beetle survey, reported infestation particularly heavy in and near the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia metropolitan areas, including Westmoreland, Fayette, Washington, Beaver and Butler counties, in addition to Allegheny, in southwestern Pennsylvania and Bucks, Montgomery, Chester and Delaware, along with Philadelphia, in the Southeast.

Northern tier counties, including Pike, Lackawanna,

Wool Growers Are Reminded Keep Records

Wool growers who marketed lambs this fall should keep adequate records of their sales so that they will be able to make proper applications for payment under the wool incentive program, Fred G. Seldomridge, chairman of the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, urged today.

The sales record for lambs sold must include the name of the buyer, his signature, and the number of liveweight lambs sold, plus the description 'unshorn' Lamb payments are made only on lambs that have never been shorn to encourage the customary practice of selling lambs with the wool on.

Mr. Seldomridge said that lamb feeders particularly should keep accurate records which will establish the length of time they have owned lambs on which they apply for payment.

Wyoming and Sullivan in the Northeast showed no increase. A small buildup was noted in a band across the state extending from the northern tier counties down to about mid-state.

Sleesman pointed out that Japanese beetle grubs thrive in lush new lawns. He attributed the increased infestation in the state's two leading metropolitan areas largely to large scale changes from rural to urban development.
