For A Thrifty Meat Meal

Cooked until they are so tender the meat falls from the bones, beef short ribs are one of the tastiest meats you could serve. An economical cut from the ends of standing rib roasts, short ribs have all the full meat flavor of the more expensive cuts and the same kind of high-quality proteins. To insure the most tender short ribs, long and slow cooking is best. Brown the meat and simmer in a little liquid until tender.

To Keep Kitchen Knives Sharp

Wash and dry knives right after using them — never soak in water. Use knives only for their particular purpose. Don't cut bones, metal, string, or paper with fine knives.

Store knives separately so the cutting edges won't become dulled from hitting against each other or other hard objects, such as metal, silver, or glass.

Always cut food on a wood cutting board. This is safe for the knife blade and for you. If a knife slips on a board, it only cuts wood. Place the cutting board on your counter or table top, not the sink or a metal pan.

Keep knife blades away from heat and never heat them in a flame — heat destroys the temper of the steel.

Some Safety Tips To Remember

For ironing use a well-balanced, rigid board with a non-flammable or treated cover. Disconnect the iron at the outlet when you're called away from ironing. Keep the hot iron on its heel when not in use.

While sewing, put pins and needles in pincushions, never in your mouth, clothing, or furniture.

Keep sharp objects out of your lap. When you need to give sharp objects, such as (Continued on Page 16)
