

Star Farmer

W. Scranton had challenged FFA youths to prepare themselves with the proper knowledge and skills so that they can take their places in Agribusiness of the future.

"I firmly believe that Pennsylvania has the greatest opportunity in agriculture of any state in the nation. We are on the edge of a rapidly growing megalopolis extending along the entire Atlantic seaboard which means a large population and a big market, all connected by our growing interstate highway system.

"In Pennsylvania we have productive land and skilled people to serve this ready market. You have a great future in this greatest of all markets in the United States if you train yourselves to be prepared to meet its needs."

At conclusion of his speech, FFA state president, Carl E. Ginder, of Mt. Joy RD, Lancaster County, presented to the governor a certificate "as a token of appreciation for encouragement, cooperation and assistance given to the Future Farmers of Pennsylvania."

The highest state degree, "Keystone Farmer," was conferred on 197 FFA members. Certificates were presented to parents with three or more sons who have earned Keystone Farmer honors. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bowman, Myerstown, RD 1, Lebanon County; Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Curtis, Union City, RD 3, Erie County; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron H. Martin, Denver, RD 1, Lancaster County; Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Swartz, Muncy, RD 2, Lycoming County; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Rishel, Mifflinburg, RD 2, Union County, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Minnich, Kutztown, RD 2, Lehigh County.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Norman, Liberty, RD 1, Tioga County, whose son Donald received the Keystone Farmer degree Wednesday, received their certificate in 1960 when another son, Duane, was honored.

prunes . . . or medium, large, or extra large prunes. The smaller the prunes, the more in a pound package. But size has nothing to do with quality.

Each year the prune crop varies in the supply of particular sizes. Large or small, prunes are the same fine fruit and have the same nutritive value.

In one pound of small size prunes, there'll be 67 to 85 which will make 10 to 12 servings of 7 prunes each. In one pound of large prunes, there'll be 48 to 53 which will make 8 to 10 servings of 5 prunes each. Pound for pound, there's almost no difference in the amount of edible fruit.

Some Ways To Stretch Food Dollar

Use thrifty meat cuts that have the same flavor and food value as the more expensive cuts. Consider chuck roasts, pot roasts, short ribs, end-cut pork loin roasts, smoked picnics, pork shoulder steaks and roasts.

Use low cost, nutritious vegetables, such as potatoes, onions, carrots, parsnips, turnips, and rutabagas, often in your menu plans.

Read food ads and clip coupons ahead of time. Keep up-to-date with food prices, then you'll know if special prices are really bargains.

Buy more than one can or package if a quantity discount is offered only if you can use the extra package to advantage.

Be a considerate shopper. If you pinch, drop, or squeeze produce, you and other shoppers pay higher prices to cover the loss.
