and the Rev Clarence M Higgins, Stone Creek, Ohio, and two animal handlers from the airlines made the trip with the livestock cargo. The ministers will visit missions in India and the Far East before returning to the States.

Henkel, president of the Lancaster County Swine Producers Association, said the breed selections were requested by the Indian government. The government farm managers are planning both purebred and crossbreeding programs in the current push to improve livestock production under the Indian's five year agricultural program.

In addition to the Willow
