Storing Tips To Keep Clothes Looking Their Best

Belts are easier to find if you keep them in one area. A large hook on the wall or door of the closet will keep them ready for use. Or you could use a wooden coat hanger with small hooked screws placed at intervals, or buy a special belt hanger ring. Brush garments before you put them away. Check each garment for loose buttons, ripped seams or hems, other needed repairs, or spot cleaning. Do this before you hang garments in closet. Or, as a reminder, write the repairs needed on slips of paper and pin to the garments.

Try hanging coats and suit jackets on sturdy wooden or padded hangers and see how much longer they keep their shape. Use garment bags or shoulder covers to keep clothing not worn regularly free from dust and lint. Fold sweaters and knitted garments neatly and put in plastic bags to avoid stretching them out of shape. Shoe bags or shoe racks on the door or closet wall help

THOMAS

Keep shoes within easy reach. Brush or polish shoes lightly after each wearing and before putting them in the closet. As you brush or polish, you can see if shoes need repair. Store handbags not used regularly, gloves, and scarves in plastic bags on a convenient shelf in the closet. Leather articles should not be tightly wrapped in plastic — they need air to help keep their supple quality.

Hat boxes or racks keep hats in their original shape and in good appearance. If using racks, you might want to put a plastic bag over each hat.

Don't Get a Shock

Be sure your hands and the floor where you're standing are dry before you touch an electric socket or electric appliance or equipment.

Never use an electric cord that is worn through to the wire. Replace it promptly to avoid an accident.

Use Your Movable Time or range timer to remind you to do various jobs, such as take the roast out of the freezer to thaw, to make a phone call at a specific time, and for short-time cooking on top of the range.

FARM WOMEN #6 MEETS

Farm Women Society #6 met at the home of Mrs. Milton Eberly, Elizabethtown R3, on January 9.

The speaker was Mr. Phares Risser of First National Bank who told the group of the progress being made on the Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation. Risser is a director on the Farm and Home Board.

Miss Edna Hammans, a former director of Homemakers of Lancaster County, showed a film titled, "Home Again."

Mrs. Richard McMullen and Mrs. Anna Brandt were named as delegates to the Farm Women's Convention at the Farm Show.

The next meeting was set for Feb. 6 at the home of Mrs. Eva Parrett, 352 Park Street, Elizabethtown.
