VOL. 10 NO. 35

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, July 31, 1965

$2 Per Year

Seasonal Farm Labor To Serve Lancaster Area

Pennsylvania's Bureau of Employment Security is emphasizing a "local labor first" policy in announcing job opportunities for seasonal farm workers, according to Bernard V. Kelly, manager of the Lancaster office.

He stated that to help area farmers meet their needs for additional day laborers to harvest tomatoes, potatoes, tobacco, and apples, the office is cooperating with farmers in dayhaul programs

Locally, in 1964, about 300 workers participated in 38 day-(Continued on Page 11)

Survey Shows Largest Percent Ag. Graduates Continuing Education

The College of Agriculture at Penn State University aning to Jerome K. Pasto, associate director for resident education in the College

Dr. Pasto says the second largest group of College of (Continued on Page 7)

County Farmers Assn. Plans Family Picnic

The Lancaster County Farm-Park, Mount Joy.

Unless it rains, the date will be August 7 — 1ain date, August 8 Games will start at 5 pm. and the meal at 7 pm cie'am and beverage.

WINNERS at the Lancaster County Holstein As-Mrs. Kenneth Hershey, Kinzer R1; ladies division was the Judies, Albert R Fry, Manheim R2, winner of the 287 points nounces that 42 percent of its men's division and top scorer of the contest; and June graduating class has gone Shirley Hershey, Lititz R2, the youth winner. Held at Holace Backus, member of the directly into graduate work the Sunny Craft Farm of Mr. and Mrs Clarence Almost half eniolled in Penn Stauffer, Ephrata R1, the Field Day attracted 400 local State's Graduate School, accord- Holstein breeders and their families L F Photo

County Plowing Contest Captured By Marvin Zimmerman; Field Day Events Featured Demonstrations

ing Contest and Field Day, and Water Commission, and sponsored by the Soil and Wa-temporary possession of oneels Association recently anter Conservation District, king-sized trophy Permanent nounced plans to hold its an- held its first contour-land possession of the latter goes nual family picnic in Sico plowing event on the historic to the person who wins the Speedwell Forge Farm of contest for three consecutive Gerald Dailington at Lititz R2 years this week was Marvin Zimmerman, East ble to compete with winners Members are asked to bring Earl R1 He is the twenty- from other counties for the their own picnic supper, the year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Association will furnish ice Martin Zimmerman His top leam and beverage.

A short program will fol out of a possible 600 — netted him one permanent tro-

The Lancaster County Plow- phy, $25 from the State Soil

Zimmerman's win at the Winner in the turf-turning county level makes him eligi-

(Continued on Page 4)

Fry Wins Top Trophy At County Holstein Field Day; Crowd Numbers 400

by Everett Newswanger,

283 3 points in the men's division of the judging contest The Field Day, held this year at the Sunny Craft Farm of Mr and Mrs Clarence Stauffer, attracted 400 local Holstein breeders and their fam-

In the Ladies contest, Mrs Kenneth Hershey, Kınzer R1, was the winner with a score of 2695 points.

Shirley Hershey, Lititz R2, was the Junior winner with

The main speaker of the day,

ASC To Tour 3 Area Farms

The Lancaster office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conseivation Service plans to visit three farms in the county on their annual tour with the cooperating agencies of Extension, Farmers Home Administration and Soil Conservation Service.

But service will be available at 9 am from Penn fice by August 5

(Continued on Page 10)

R Austin Backus, Inc., Mexi-Staff Reporter co, N Y. sale managers and Albert R. Fry, Manheim R2, auctioneers, told the gatherwon the challenge trophy ing that the greatest chal-Wednesday at the annual lenge in merchandising top Lancaster County Holstein quality cattle today "Lies not Field Day, with a score of so much in locating a market,

(Continued on Page 5)

Eugene Hosler Gets Danforth Scholarship

Eugene H Hosler, 19, son Manor High School Fare will of Mr and Mrs Mark W. Hosbe 75 cents for adults, with ler, Manheim R3, is one of children under 12 free Those two Pennsylvania 4-H memwishing to travel by bus bers to receive a Danforth should contact the ASC of Scholarship to attend Camp Miniwanca, leadership training The group will visit the camp, at Stonylake, Mich,

(Continued on Page 11)

Feed Efficiency, Main Road To Hog Profits, Specialist Tells County Pig Producers At Picnic

Referring to Penn State people gathered for the an-

He told a group of about 75

Farm Calendar

August 3 — 8 am County Gruber, sale starts at 1 pm. -3-7 p.m. County 4-H Dairy ing only.

(Continued on Page 12)

University records on 25 hog nual Lancaster County Swine operations in the state over Producers Assn picnic at the the past two years, Dwight H&H farm of John Hess II Younkin livestock specialist, near Willow Street that recsaid that the difference in ords of the top-producing production costs between top group showed 360 pounds of producers and poor producers feed per hundredweight of amounted to about $6 per gain versus 450 pounds for market hog on feed efficiency the average poor producer's herd

"Feed utilization is a mirror of your management," Younkin said Few hog farmers have adequate records and therefore don't know what their time costs per pound of meat might be "Hog produc-FFA Hog Show at Lancaster eis should follow the recoid-Stockyards; judge, Henry keeping example of the large poultrymen," he advised

He said that because the Club Roundup at Guernsey hog business is spread over small units on each farm, it

(Continued on Page 5)

HOGS GETTING THE JUDGE'S EYE at the Lancaster County Swine Pro-Sales Barn — Holstein judg- the entire country, usually in ducers picnic held last Saturday at the H & H farm near Willow Street. Livestock specialist Dwight Younkin, left, being assisted by county agricultural agent M. M. Smith. Five classes were judged on an audience-participation basis. L. F. Photo