Some Guidelines For Buying Slips
When possible, try on slips to determine the accuracy of fit. The smoother the fit of the slip, the better the effect of your outer garments.

Many slips are proportioned for the average, short, and tall figures, and some are proportioned for full, slender, or heavy hips.

Bias cut slips tend to cling to the figure, don't sag or twist, and are suitable for the slim or average figure.

Straight grain cut slips, made with four or six gores, don't ride up and are flattering for women with heavier figures or with full hips.

Workmanship is important. Seams should be closely machine overcast, double stitched and pinked, or French seam finished. Straps should be of a firmly woven fabric or stretch material and adjustable. Applique or trim should be securely fastened and be of a fabric that will take the same care as the slip fabric.

A Tip for Preparing Pot Roasts
Savory beef pot roast is a satisfying dinner dish and it's also easy on the budget. But you don't always have to prepare it the same way. For variety in preparing a pot roast, use liquids other than water. Tomato juice is a good choice. After you've browned the meat in a little hot fat, add tomato juice or tomato sauce diluted with water. For extra flavor, add soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, or chopped onions to the liquid. Cover the pan with a tight-fitting lid and simmer until meat is done. Long, slow cooking is essential for a tasty pot roast that will please your family.
