On-The-Shelf Storage For Foods

You can store some foods at room temperature in kitchen cabinets or in the basement. Such on-the-shelf foods have a relatively long storage life. But most foods stored on the shelf should be tightly sealed and kept in a dry place away from light and heat.

Foods you can keep satisfactorily on the shelf include: Unopened canned foods, unless otherwise indicated on the label. Dried foods, such as vegetables and fruits. Prepared mixes, puddings, gelatin, spices, and seasonings. Grain products including breakfast cereals, rice, macaroni products, and flour. Fats and oils except butter, margarine, and lard.

Agricultural Extension Service was attended by several members at the Meadow Hills Dining Room, New Danville.
