

Scholarships To Two Area Girls

Pennsylvania Power & Light Company scholarships in the form of grant-in-aid tuition payments of $250 were awarded to two area young people it was announced Friday, as part of PP&L's general scholarship program.

The awards went to Linda L. Ney, Marietta R1, and Kay M. Graham, 120 Walnut St., Wrightsville.

Miss Ney, a senior at Donegal High School, will attend Lock Haven State College, and will major in health and physical education. She is a library assistant at Donegal High, and a member of its dramatic club and girls' track team. Miss Ney was a member of the school band for five years, and has been a member of the Future Teachers Association for three years.

Miss Graham is a senior at East Joint High School, where she has been active in school activities. She is a member of the National Honor Society, student council, dramatic club,

Merck Offers Free Horse Booklet

A free booklet called "What Every Horse Owner Should Know About Equine Roundworms" is now available from Merck & Co., Inc. According to the booklet, an estimated 90% of the millions of pleasure horses in the United States are infected with roundworms.

Basic information on four major types of roundworms that infect horses is presented in the booklet, which also describes the roundworm life cycle. Even knowledgeable horse owners may be misled because of the lack of obvious and is on the staff of the school yearbook and newspaper. She will take a liberal arts program with a major in government at Millersville State College.

The colleges and universities have the sole responsibility in determining scholarship winners. They consider scholastic ability, financial need, and other criteria in making the awards.

symptoms, the booklet says.

Most dangerous equine roundworm is the large strongyle, or "bloodworm." Infestation with these may eventually cause colic, shortness of breath, lameness or even sudden death from blockage of blood to vital organs. Large strongyles infect about 70% of all horses, according to parasitologists. Other common equine roundworms are small strongyles, pin worms and ascarids.

Worming horses is a comparatively simple chore these days, requiring none of the starving or special handling that older worming routines used to call for. The Merck booklet gives advice on an easy and convenient worming program that can be set up through the horse owner's veterinarian. A regular worming program can help you "enjoy your horse at his best," the booklet says.

The 8-page, 4-color publication can be obtained by writing to: M. C. Nelson, Merck Chemical Division, Rahway, New Jersey 07065.

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, May 28, 1966—7

Fair Schedule

(Continued from Page 1)

attendance in 1965 totaled 6,576,538, not including 4-H and FFA fairs at which admission was free and attendance was not counted.

State fair funds disbursed totaled 774,202.24, the secretary said.

Locally, the season will open with the Ephrata Fair, September 20-24, followed immediately by the Southern Lancaster (Solanco) Community Fair at Quarryville on September 21-23.

The West Lampeter Community Fair will run September 27-30 at Lampeter, and the New Holland Farmers' Fair September 28-October 1.

As usual, the season in Lancaster County will conclude with the Manheim Farm Show October 5-7.

Youth activities, 4-H and FFA, will again be star attractions at Lancaster County's five country agricultural fairs in 1966.

Logans Honored By New York Flying Farmers

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Logan, 1204 Paoli Pike, West Chester, flew to Utica, N. Y., last Saturday to attend the joint annual convention of New York Flying Farmers and Vermont Flying Farmers. Logan is Director of Region 1 of the International Flying Farmers, and organized the Vermont Chapter before it and New York became part of the new Region 11, which was established in 1964.

During the convention, Mr. and Mrs. Logan were presented lifetime honorary membership in the New York Flying Farmers Association in recognition of their past service to that organization.

International Flying Farmer President, Dayton Chisholm and wife, Lois, of Pierre, South Dakota; International Flying Farmer Vice President, James Oliver, and wife, Madeline, Stuttgart, Arkansas; and International Flying Farmer Queen, Ruth Wilson, and husband, Harry, and Logan addressed the convention in session at the Trunkans Motel, Utica.

SWCD

(Continued from Page 1) regulation. It is not presently a planning and zoning commission, but this role could be established at the wish of the county commissioners," he added.

Harned said that, at the moment, one of the commission's primary functions was to advise the municipal planning and zoning commissions in the county.

It was pointed out by Boyd Kinzley, representing the state soil and water commission, that, although land use is quite flexible, once it is covered with houses and highways its flexibility is at an end. The expense of reclaiming it for other uses would be prohibitive, he said. If it had been kept open, its flexibility would have permitted wiser use at some later time. "We're thinking the same way as our ancestors did when they said there was no end to the buffalo. By the year 2000 how will we solve our hunger problems if we can't solve them now," Kinzley asked.

"What emphasis does the planning commission put on the preservation of natural resources in planning?" Kinzley asked the planning director.

Harned explained that the commission has no overall county plan at this time since much of the staff effort has been directed to assisting municipalities in their development. "Although no overall policy has been stated, we know the resources are there and we know what they are," Harned stated.

The planner told the conservationists that such joint discussions could help the planning commission to a better understanding of agricultural leaders' thinking on the subject, and of what people in the county want.

Although the conservation district is well along on its own long range plan for best future use of the county's natural resources, Funk stated that it is impossible for the district to set up goals without coordinating with the planning commission. He suggested that the exchange of ideas between planning and agriculture should continue in the form of future discussions.

please stop by ...

Has supplies for all your poultry needs and many other farm supplies.

We will be most happy to show you our expanded operation and discuss your needs.

- chick boxes
- egg cases
- hatchery supplies
- egg processing equipment
- poultry equipment
- hog equipment
- cattle equipment

Harry Ressler
Warehouse Manager

Richard Buss
Sales Representative

Hours: 8:00 A.M. - 12:00 Noon, 1:00 - 5:00 P.M. Monday - Friday and 8:00 A.M. - 12:00 Noon, Saturday

anderson box company

Home Office — Indianapolis, Indiana

P.O. Box 1233
197 Greenfield Road
Lancaster, Pennsylvania
Phone A.C. 717-394-9204