Ladies, Have You Heard? . . .

By Doris Thomas, Extension Home Economist

Laundering Durable Press Garments
Wash garments before they get too heavily soiled
Use small loads. Wash whites in separate loads
Before washing, treat oily stains overnight with liquid detergent
Use an adequate amount of detergent (very important).
A cool pre-wash (use soak cycle or rinse cycle for this) keeps some soils from setting.
If washer and dryer are several years old, the porcelain enamel lining may be chipped or roughened. If this is true of your machine, wash durable press items in mesh bags . . . allow room in each bag for fabrics to be freely flexed in the washing, rinsing cycles.
If the washer has two speeds, use the slower one.

THOMAS

A water conditioner in the first rinse helps prevent graying.
Always use a fabric softener in the last rinse
Use a steam iron for touch-up ironing, usually on "synthetic" or "wash and wear" setting
Using Beef Leftovers
Make soup stock from bones and pieces
Use meat gravy as part of meat pies
Use ground leftover pieces for sandwiches, patties, croquettes, hash, jelled meat salads, stuffed peppers, turnovers, or in biscuit pinwheels.
Use cubed leftover beef in cream sauce over toast or biscuits, in curry sauce over rice; in casseroles with rice, noodles, or spaghetti with cream sauce and cheese, in cold meat salads, creamed with potatoes or hard-cooked eggs; in meat pies
