

● SWCD

(Continued from Page 1) which was held at the Host Farm Motel, the conservation directors continued to develop plans for the annual state conservation meeting which Lancaster County will host in 1967. It was announced that

Dr. D. L. Biemesderfer, former president of Millersville State College, would be the featured speaker for the event, and that, pending final approval by the State SWCD, the convention would be held at the Host Farm Motel November 19-21, in 1967.

The directors also approved plans for the advanced distribution of literature promoting Lancaster County at this year's state conservation convention being held this week at Lewis-town. It was decided to include literature describing the tourist attractions of Lancaster County and some on the Host Farm Motel.

Serving on a panel which will discuss "Getting Conservation on the Land" at the Lewis-town meeting will be former county director Elmer Sensenig. Mifflin and Juniata Counties are serving as co-hosts for this year's convention.

Delegates to the state meeting this week included: Funk, Millersville R1; Henry Hackman, Manheim R2; vice chairman; Aaron Z. Stauffer, Ephrata R1, director; Vincent Hoover, New Providence, Elmer Good, Lititz R1, and Sensenig, all associate directors; and Orval Bass, work unit conservationist, Soil Conservation Service.

In other business at Monday's meeting, the directors approved nine new cooperators agreements totaling 840 acres to be treated.
