Feeders everywhere are talking about Ful-O-Pep Cattle-izer Beef Supplement

In feedlot after feedlot—commercial and farm—feeders are reporting better gains and conversions at lower feed cost.

The reason: It's Ful-O-Pep Cattle-izer Beef Supplement . . . designed to enable the beef animal to get up to 20% more energy from the same amount of feed . . . and to use that extra energy for faster, more efficient gains.

Gain, efficiency of gain, cost of gain, market value of cattle, and other factors are reflected in net return. And net return, cattlemen are reporting, is higher when Ful-O-Pep Cattle-izer Beef Supplement is fed.

CCC GRAIN BINS OFFERED FOR SALE

Commodity Credit Corporation has authorized the sale of metal storage bins. The first load is expected to arrive in Lancaster County in the near future, according to ASCS office manager Miss Dorothy Y. Neel.

The bins hold 3250 bushel and weigh about 4000 pound. They include an 18 foot foundation ring, circulating fan and nuts and bolts.

Bins will be trucked to a central point and farmers must bear the cost of moving them to the farm. Sale will be through sealed bids, and minimum price is expected to be between $450 and $500.

July Prices

Milk jumped 15 cents to $5.50 per hundredweight following the normal seasonal pattern.

Poultry and egg prices rose seven percent as a result of a three-cent increase in eggs. The current price of eggs at 33 cents a dozen is still considerably below a year ago.

Nationally, the index of prices received by farmers advanced three-fourths of one percent.

"All-American" Deadline Nears

HARRISBURG — Dairy cattlemen were reminded today that entry lists for the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show close Tuesday, Aug. 15. The fourth annual exposition will be held Sept. 11-15 in the Farm Show Building.

Harold R. McCulloch, show manager, said all entries with postmarks of Aug 15 or earlier will be accepted. Those mailed after that date will be declined.

Danymen from the United States and Canada may enter purebred bulls and females of the Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn breeds. The All-American also will be the site of the Eastern National Holstein Show.

Cash premiums total more than $50,000. Special trophies will be presented by the respective Pennsylvania breed associations to the grand champion female in each breed. Premiums also are provided for the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show on opening day and the Pennsylvania Black and White Show the following day.

McCulloch says he anticipates about 2,500 entries — 1,700 in the open class, 300 in the Black and White class, and 500 in the Junior Dairy Show.

Show sponsors are the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and its Farm Show Commission, and the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association.

Guernsey Breeders

"I can go into a man's place where he has DHIA records and can brag about certain cows and his herd average. Yet the most important thing about the records is they must be analyzed and used to determine profits. The only reason you have a cow is to have her take one dollar's worth of feed and turn it into more than one dollar's worth of milk. If she doesn't, you better sell her," Olig stated.

JUDGING CONTEST

Scoring top honors in the morning judging contest was Mrs. J. Rohrer Witmer, Willow Street R2. Mrs. Witmer won the true-type model cow.

In the men's division Elam Mull, Quarryville R1, was first; James Myers, 1150 Village Road, Lancaster topped the youth division.

Other winners included: Ladies Division — Dorothy Deningler, Gordonville R1, second; Mrs. Herbert N. Myers, 1150 Village Road, third; and Thelma Garber, Willow Street R2, fourth; Men's Division—Rohrer Witmer, Willow Street R2, second; Elmer Lapp, Kinzer, third; and Glenn Shultz, Pequea R1, fourth. Youth Division — Cindy Breneman, Strasburg R1, second; Donald Breneman, Strasburg R1 third; and James Eshleman, Strasburg R1, fourth.

FEED ROSE PLANTS

Feed roses during late July if you want them to bloom during early fall, says J. Robert Nuss, extension ornamental horticulturist. About half a cup of a 5-10-10 fertilizer scratched into the soil's surface around each plant should be enough. Then, water until soaked around the plant to a depth of about six inches. Feeding roses early in the fall may cause rapid growth, which could result in winter injury, says Nuss.

Another fault with being punctual is that everybody thinks you never have anything to do.
