

Peace Corps Needs Applicants

WASHINGTON — The Peace Corps needs farmers and agriculture graduates this summer.

Hundreds of applicants are being sought to fill requests from ten countries for agriculture and agricultural cooperative Volunteers according to Edward C. Pytlík, Peace Corps agriculture desk officer.

Volunteers receive intensive language and specialized skill training that is consistent with host country needs, Pytlík said.

Volunteers bound for India, for example, will concentrate during training on poultry breeding and management needs in Mysore state, southern India. They will assist Indians with feed analysis, poultry pathology and disease control, incubating and breeding.

Another training group bound for Venezuela will concentrate on agrarian reform. They will assist new Venezuelan landowners with rice, corn and vegetable production. Others will work with 4-H groups raising chickens, rabbits and pigs and growing vegetables.

Volunteers assigned to Kenya will work in range management, animal husbandry, veterinary medicine, dairy science, agronomy, horticulture and farm mechanization. Kenya also has requested Volunteer geologists with experience in hydrology, well drilling or water exploration.

Other agriculture training programs scheduled this summer will result in Volunteers assigned to Micronesia, Morocco, Bolivia, Somalia, Ecuador, Iran and Afghanistan.

Additional information is available from the Peace Corps, Room 715, Washington, D. C. 20525.

ORTHO BIRD REPELLENT

Crows, blackbirds, pheasants — any bird that steals seed won't come back a second time for seed treated with ORTHO Bird Repellent. They spit it out and fly away. It's easy to get this kind of protection for your seed. All you do is pour this repellent right in with the seed in your planter box.

Actually, you're getting more than bird protection with this product. The full name is ORTHO Bird Repellent and Seed Protectant. It also contains an insecticide to control soil insects such as wireworms, seed corn maggots and corn rootworm. And a fungicide for extra protection against diseases like seedling blight, damp-off, and seed decay.

This is the only bird repellent that combines all these protections. So this year, don't plant for the birds. When you get your seed, ask us for ORTHO Bird Repellent.
