MEMORIAL

A day of tender memory,
A day of sacred hours.
Of little bands of marching men.
Of drums and flags and flowers.

A day when a great nation halts
Its mighty, throbbing pace.
And pays its meed of gratitude
And love with willing grace.

A day when battles are retold,
And eulogies are said,
When dirges sound, and chaplains read
The office for the dead.

A day when fairest, sweetest blooms
Are laid upon each grave.
And wreaths are hung on monuments.
And banners, half-mast, wave.

A day to keep from year to year
In memory of the dead;
Let music sound, and flowers be laid
Upon each resting-bed.

● Farm Bureau

ment spending are both meaningful and necessary." Charles B. Shuman, president of the nation's largest general farm organization, said. "Not only does the $6 billion expenditure cut this year represent a substantial turn around from accelerated federal spending, but the reduction and repeal of basic spending authority will carry the thrust of this slow-down in federal spending into 1970 and subsequent years."

He noted that the official voting delegates of the member state Farm Bureaus at the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in December 1967 had adopted this statement of policy:

"The current fiscal situation calls for action to eliminate strong inflationary pressures. At this time we oppose any increase in taxes which is not matched by a prior and equivalent reduction in government expenditures for the duration of the tax increase."

The Farm Bureau president said the reductions in federal spending proposed by the Senate-House conferees include a proposal to reduce federal civilian employment to levels of June 30, 1966. This would result in a reduction of 321,183 government workers from the 2,687,500 federal civilian employees previously anticipated by the end of fiscal 1969.

"After meaningful cuts in expenditures and in new spending authority are instituted," Shuman said, "Farm Bureau can and will support a temporary 10 percent surtax on corporate and individual incomes."

The conference report provides for this revenue measure to become effective January 1, 1968 for corporations and April 1, 1968 for individuals and to expire June 30, 1969, for both.

"Reductions in federal spending coupled with a tax increase will help to control the present inflationary situation which has aggravated the brutal cost-price squeeze in which the nation's farm families are now caught," he said.

"Farm costs are at an all-time high," Shuman pointed out. "The parity ratio stands at 73—lower than in most of the depression years of the 1930s."

He added that Farm Bureaus willing to accept reductions in federal spending for agriculture in order to achieve significant cuts in total government outlays.

"We shall point out to the Congress that billions of dollars can be saved in the future if the House and Senate will reject current proposals to extend the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965," he concluded.
