

Library
School of Agriculture
Patterson Bldg
University Park, Pa. 16802

RECEIVED
MAY - 7 1969
PERIODICALS SECTION
PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY

Lancaster Farming

VOL. 14 NO. 23

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, May 3, 1969

$2.00 Per Year

County Youths To Judge Dairy Animals Today

Four Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Judges are scheduled to attend the 44th Annual Dairy Exposition today at Penn State. They are Joyce Stoltzfus, Ronks R1, Carol Groff, Quarryville R3, Averril Royer, 2025 Oregon Pike, Lancaster and Wayne Yost, New Holland R1

The Exposition is sponsored by the Penn State Dairy Science Club and features a variety of contests including ice cream sculpturing, dairy products judging, a dairy princess contest, fitting and snowing and the dairy cattle judging.

The local youths are set to judge at 12:30 p.m. at the University Dairy Barns. If they win, they will be invited to the awards banquet to be held May 10 at the Pine Grove Mills Elementary School.

Dairy cattle judging at the Annual Exposition is not new for any of the local 4-H youths. In the 1968 contest, the three girls were members of the winning State Dairy 4-H Judging Team and Yost was the high individual and a member of the champion State FFA Dairy Judging Team from Pequea Valley High School.

Contest officials said this is an excellent chance for 4-H and FFA members to gain valuable experience in judging dairy cattle.

One of the official judges of the contest is John Bomgardner, of Annville, a former member of the Penn State dairy judging team.

In addition to the placing of animals, all contestants, except those in the amateur division, must give five oral reasons for their placings in two of the classes.

THE POINTS to look for in a riding horse are discussed by John Glick and his sons Randy (at the halter) and Jimmy. The fine typed yearling quarter horse is

Miss Rocking G Bar. Glick gives pointers and suggestions for other young 4-H horsemen in Lancaster Farming's lead feature this week. L. F. Photo

Pennmarva Seeks Milk Hearing

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will hold a public hearing May 27 in Baltimore, Md., to consider amending three eastern milk marketing orders with respect to payments to cooperatives for marketwide services to producers. Involved are the Delaware Valley, Upper Chesapeake Bay, Md., and the Washington, D. C., Federal milk marketing orders.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service officials said the hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m.

in the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore and Calvert Streets, Baltimore. It was requested by Pennmarva Dairymen's Cooperative Federation, Inc., which includes three major cooperative associations in these markets.

As proposed, the three orders would be amended to provide for making payments to cooperatives out of the milk order pools to reimburse them for performing marketwide services to producers.

The Eastern Milk Producers Association is proposing adoption of marketing services provisions under the Delaware Valley order. The other two orders already contain marketing service provisions, but the hearing will be open with respect to revising the present provisions.

After considering the evidence presented at the hearing, USDA will decide whether to recommend amending the orders as proposed, on the basis of the hearing record.

Copies of the notice of hearing may be obtained from the market administrators of the orders, or from the Dairy Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington D. C. 20250

John Glick Advises 4-H Youth On Horsemanship

Editor's Note:

Lancaster County has six 4-H horse and pony clubs with nearly 150 young members. These clubs are experiencing increased interest to the extent that in one club the number of members doubled in one year. For these youth and all other youth and adults as well, this interview with veteran horse trainer John Glick, Leola, is dedicated.

I'd like to see the 4-H children buy a foal or a yearling and bring it up themselves," said John Glick, Expert Horse Trainer from Bareville. And John should know about 4-Hers and horses. He has two Silver Spurs 4-H Club members of his own (Randy 12 and Jimmy 9) and he has trained many horses into top performers. Mrs. Glick joins in all the horse activity also, to make it a complete family affair.

Speaking about a child affording a good blood-lined horse, John continued, "The horse and the child could learn together. The way the horse is trained may not be quite right but if they learn together that horse will do what the boy or girl wants it to.

"Start to train your young yearling to respond to the halter," he said. "Get him to walk, jog and lope on the halter and give him the commands. Then as he grows up, saddle him and put a little bag of feed in the saddle for weight. By the time he is two years-old, he will be ready to ride."

When you first get into the saddle, Glick recommends using a bogal bridle (one without a bit in the mouth). "Turn him with a regular pull rein," John said. "Then gradually start laying the opposite rein against his neck and pressing your opposite leg against his side at the same time you pull him around. Soon he will neck rein. You want a horse that you can handle with leg pressure and the bit," he said.

Pa. Red Meat Production Is 268,560,000 Lbs. In 1st Quarter

Commercial red meat production in Pennsylvania was 86,950,000 pounds in March. This was 4 percent more than the February production and 6 percent less than March 1968.

Total red meat production for January-March 1969 was 268,560,000, 3 percent less than the 1968 output for the same period. National commercial production (Continued on Page 7)

What Happens To Deer Killed On Pa. Highways?

A recent Pennsylvania Game Commission announcement that over 21,000 deer were killed when struck by vehicles on the state's highways last year has prompted inquiries concerning (Continued on Page 9)

Farm Calendar

Monday, May 5
7:30 p.m.—Elm-Penryn 4-H Club meets. Penryn Fire Hall

Tuesday, May 6
8:30 p.m.—Regional FFA Parliamentary and Public (Continued on Page 9)

Carol Groff

Wayne Yost

Averril Royer

Joyce Stoltzfus