

Broken Bit 4-H Club
By Cindy Enck

The Broken Bit 4-H Club met Friday evening, November 21 at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Chester Immel Jr., R.D. 3, Lititz, Pa.

A report on the 4-H National Horse Show was given by Natilee Immel.

Mrs. Charles Risser, club leader, read an article on "Washing Your Horse."

A nominating committee was chosen as follows: Natilee Immel, Jane Gregory, and Cynthia Enck. Also, a Christmas committee was selected: Becky Saddler, Karin Risser, and Lisa Ditzler.

Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Gregory, R.D. 1, Lititz, Pa., December 19.

Bright Stars

A nova is a star which undergoes a sudden and enormous increase in brightness. About 25 novae appear every year in our galaxy.

So serious is the problem that Congress established a National Commission on Product Safety to study products on the market, policies of manufacturers, and needs for legislation.

Congress can't enforce safe use of household appliances. How you use a product determines to a great extent just how safe the product is. Protection can be built into appliances but you, the user, must use it safely. You must consciously learn and practice safe work patterns until they become habitual. And follow the manufacturers' instructions for effective and safe use of any appliance.

Safety begins when you select and install appliances. Choose appliances that bear industries' seal of approval. Install them according to manufacturers' specifications. Then use them in safe ways.

While more adequate protection may need to be built into some appliances and legislation to enforce production of safer appliances may be indicated, a large share of the responsibility lies with you and how you use your appliances.

One way to give your home a personal and interesting touch is to express yourself and your family in your furnishings.

Choose pictures that interest and inspire your family. Some pictures will appeal because they tell a story or remind someone of an experience. Others may please family members because they have a beautiful color pattern. But whatever the appeal, a picture should bring enjoyment.

Generally when we think of pictures we're referring to graphics or paintings. But we sometimes forget that graphics include drawings, etchings, engravings, lithographs, and woodcuts. Paintings include oil, water color, and casein. Photographs aren't included because some people think that family photographs and other sentimental pictures will be better displayed in the more personal rooms of their house. But you can display some photographs attractively within one large frame. Or, you can put family photographs in an album where you can easily show them.

Besides personal likes, there are other things to think about when you select pictures. Pictures will give a room more unity if they seem to belong together — that is, if they're similar in color and feeling and if they seem to belong to the room and its furnishings.

Try not to use too many pictures. In most rooms, one picture should dominate. If you have several pictures that you enjoy, display them now and then. One rule of thumb is this — if a picture no longer gives satisfaction to your family, remove it, at least temporarily. For a picture should say something pleasant and inspire you and your family.
