

Northeastern Breeders Elects 1970 Officers

The Directors of Northeastern Breeders Association (NEBA) at their sixth Annual Meeting on March 31, 1970 elected Edward Flitcraft of Woodstown, New Jersey, as the second President from its inception in October of 1964. Composed of ten Directors, the NEBA Board guides and controls the policies of this breeding cooperative which serves New Jersey and Eastern and Central Pennsylvania.

Mr Flitcraft succeeds Ira Yoder of Selinsgrove, Pa. Mr. Yoder, who remains on the Board, served as President of NEBA from its inception in October of 1964. At that time four Breeding Cooperatives consolidated forming NEBA, and established headquarters at Tunkhannock, Pa.

Gary Rickard of Honesdale, Pennsylvania was elected Vice-President to succeed Mr. Flitcraft and John Epler of Northumberland was re-elected Treasurer. William Schaefer of NEBA was re-instated as Secretary to the Board with H. F. Pfaff of Tunkhannock and Henry Schaefer of Trenton, New Jersey named Assistant Secretaries, and NEBA Manager, F. P. Shannon was renamed Assistant Treasurer.

Forty five delegates from NEBA's local breeding units re-elected John Epler from District I and Gary Rickard from District III as Directors for three-year terms. A new member of the Board was selected with the election of Aiden Tewksbury of Meshoppen, Pa. to succeed C. R. Hack of Berwick as Director from District III.

How to Cut Calories

To get fewer calories but just as much protein and as many vitamins and minerals that you need Louise W. Hamilton, extension nutrition specialist at Pennsylvania State University, suggests this simple plan

Eat fewer foods that contribute calories only, substitute foods that provide protein, minerals, and vitamins but which have fewer calories consider how the food is cooked — fried foods have more calories than baked, broiled, or stewed foods
