

39 Iowa 4-H Guests Visit Lancaster County

On July 8, 39 Iowa 4-H's, their Extension 4-H and Youth Leader, Ardyce Roehr, and Mr & Mrs Stanley Anderson from Iowa arrived at the Farm and Home Center on Acadia Road.

After they had eaten their picnic dinner at the center with their 4-H family host, they left for four days of Lancaster living.

Some events were planned for their enjoyment and education of the area, reported Miss Jean D. Lucas, assistant extension home economist.

Thursday, July 9 the Extension office planned a bus tour of Lancaster County stopping to visit the Wax Museum, Landis Valley Museum, and the Old Mill.

As they observed the rich agricultural land of Lancaster, they were informed about the County and Amish living by Mrs Rhelda Royer and Mrs Pauline Stoltzfus.

Friday night, July 10, they and their guests were invited by County Council to John Kuntz's barn for a square dance. There were about 100 in attendance and everyone had a fun filled evening.

The remainder of their visit was spent with their 4-H host families who were able to share with them items they felt of great interest in this area.

On Monday, July 13, they arose very early to get a good start back to Iowa.

KERR RESIGNS

The resignation of James M. Kerr, Warwick High School vocational teacher, Litzitz, was accepted this week by the Warwick School Board.
