She belongs to the Chestnut Level Presbyterian Church and one of the Circles. She taught Bible School there this summer. She also taught a Sunday School class before marriage.

Elaine has been a helper of the Drumore 4-H Sewing Club which meets at Chestnut Level for six to eight years. They have from 40 to 50 members and 10 leaders and helpers. All five of the Cutler girls have been in this club. Elaine says, "We all enjoy sewing, it's the hobby of the household." She came from a family of sewers and took sewing in High School Home Economics. She likes to work with children and finds it stimulating to have outside interests.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cutler are long-standing Grangers. Mrs. Cutler joined Covington Boro Grange, Tioga County in 1941 and transferred to Fulton Grange, Lancaster County in 1945. In 1948 she organized Fulton Junior Grange 343 and served as Matron.

Jesse joined Fulton Grange in 1927. He transferred to Penn State Grange, in Centre County, where he served as Master. Mr. Cutler taught Agriculture in high school for seven years after graduation from Pennsylvania State College. He taught at Huntingdon Mills, Luzerne County and Laceyville, Wyoming County. The Cutlers moved to the home farm in Drumore in 1943.

Jesse has been an active person in the community, serving as time would permit. He is an elder in the Chestnut Level Presbyterian Church, has been on the Lancaster County Planning Commission highways committee for several years.

He is on the Board of Directors of the Family and Children's Service, a red feather service. The County Commissioners pay what the Community Chest does not pay. They have a Director and a staff of workers who have an adoptive service, foster-child placement, marriage counseling, etc. The director supervises staff members.

She also goes to school one day a week. She is married to David Miller of Wilmington, Del. He has his Ph.D. in Physiology and specializes in research. They are moving to Omaha, Neb. where he will work for his M.D. at the University of Nebraska and Jean will also take some courses.

Janet is attending Bridgewater College in Virginia and taking art. This is a Biethren school of about 900 students.

Carol is in tenth grade at Solanco. She has been in 4-H six years.

Mrs. Cutler likes to read. She hard cooked eggs in a layer on sandwiches in reading quite a few books among her duties. She used to knit. She says, "I love flowers." She has quite a few annuals and house plants. She says, "That's what I want to do when I retire, have lots of flowers."

She is interested in antiques and does some refinishing. They have an antique Victorian sofa that dates back to the early 1800s, which belonged to Jesse's great, great, grandfather Jesse Cutler.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutler like to travel. They went on a Caribbean cruise for their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. They have been to Montana and to Yellowstone National Park and to some European countries. She likes to cook. "But more than anything else, I enjoy being busy," says Mrs. Cutler.
