

Ag Waste Group Asks For Nat. Program

(Continued from Page 17) Research and demonstration conferences concluded must pay off in "nuisance-free" environments, "least cost" handling and "resource recovery" to nature meaning that useful wastes should be recycled and reused rather than destroyed. The legislative group called for a unification of effort, a defining of legislative need and the development of a legislative program to deal with the growing problems of agricultural waste. This effort needs to be accomplished at national and state levels. Insofar as state legislation on agricultural waste is concerned, there should be a considerable measure of uniformity among the states.

In the field of communications and public relations it was decided that the time has come for a united front to take direct action to establish an understanding between the country and the city. Special emphasis was placed upon the fact that those involved with the problem must tell their own story honestly and effectively.

Approximately 250 attended the four-day conference which was one of the first of its kind. Twenty-six states, as well as Guam, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia, were represented.

The meeting was sponsored by the New Jersey Animal Waste Disposal Task Force in cooperation with the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware.
