

WASHINGTON REPORT

Congressman Edwin D. Eshleman

16th District—Pennsylvania

Terrorism is a world problem today. Buildings are bombed for no apparent reason. Diplomats are kidnapped and murdered by radical revolutionaries. We witness piracy in the skies as airplanes are hijacked.

The cost of these instances of terrorism is measured in lives and fear. While they are crimes against property and illegal acts under all national and international law, the single most important thing to realize is that they are crimes against civilization. They are savage acts which show no respect at all for human life or the cultural traditions which protect life.

Such savagery is usually associated with barbarians. The revolutionaries responsible for today's terror are, in fact, the new barbarians.

By adopting aimless destruction and inhuman viciousness as a program, the new barbarians have presented a difficult problem to the world. Presently, international law does not seem capable of handling widespread instances of wanton destruction and brutality.

Nations acting alone and together must find ways for dealing with guerrillas and terrorists. The warning is clear. Each unpunished act of savagery encourages a dozen more. If the radical revolutionaries are allowed to triumph enough of the time, we could witness the coming of a dark age — an age of unbridled anarchy or harsh repression.

Here in the United States, those responsible for bombings, murders and other acts of "revolutionary" terrorism must be brought swiftly to justice. We should deal with this small group of radicals in such a way as to discourage others from joining in that brand of irresponsibility.

Every possible effort must be exerted toward apprehending, prosecuting and punishing those whose record is one of death and destruction.

On the international front the effort should be the same, although the problems are naturally more difficult. Justice is harder to determine and bring about when several countries are involved.

But perhaps ideas like that of bringing international sanctions to bear against those nations who harbor airplane hijackers should be considered more seriously. Actions have to be taken to show the new barbarians that the civilized world means business.

For good production next lactation,

FEED PURINA DAIRY CONDITIONER

As a dairyman, you know that good milk production doesn't just happen. It's something you plan for by establishing a herd with the genetic potential for good production, then managing and feeding your cows so they'll produce up to their bred-in ability.

Many successful local dairymen also plan for good production with a proven program of dry cow feeding. They need Purina Dairy Conditioner, a research-proven ration to help give dry cows body condition they need for good production after they freshen.

Purina Dairy Conditioner is an extra-palatable 12½ percent protein ration. It's fortified with vitamins A and D plus extra phosphorus to help guard against milk fever.

Purina Dairy Conditioner is low-cost too, because the amounts you feed depend on your cows' condition and on the quality of the roughages you feed. For example, a cow dried off in good condition being fed high-quality roughages would require less Dairy Conditioner than a cow in only fair condition being fed fair quality roughages.

Drop in soon and get your free copy of the Purina Dry Cow Program folder. We'll be glad to show you how Purina Dairy Conditioner can help you prepare your dry cows for good production next lactation.

GET MORE FROM EACH MAN!

PUTTING on extra labor during the peak seasons is mighty expensive. Finding manpower at those times is difficult. Makes a lot more sense to get more work from the manpower you have . . . by putting your labor force on a bigger tractor.

That's what we call workpower . . . the real measure of a man's worth . . . whether it's your personal worth or that of a hired man. Allis-Chalmers One-Ninety and One-Ninety XT Series III tractors can give you that extra measure of workpower. And the savings from covering more acres per man hour can add up to bigger profits. So power-up with the Big Orange ones from Allis-Chalmers. Going Orange is Going Great!
