FREY FREE STALL

Lifetime Free Stall Housing

Cut bedding costs 75%, reduce labor for barn cleaning and cow washing; reduce teat and udder injury to the minimum — house your milking herd in free stall housing. Each cow provided a stall for loafing. She won't be stepped on, the rear curb forces manure out into alley for mechanical cleaning or washing. A few minutes twice a day cleans the stalls and curbs, bedding lasts almost forever if your stalls fit the cows. Popular sizes are 6'6", 7' and 7'6". Size 'em by breed.

Our free stall partition may be mounted on wooden head boards or we make a steel divider. Set the legs in 8 to 10" concrete curbs to hold and retain bedding. Stall floor can be soil, sand or gravel. Bedding — straw, sawdust, peanut hulls, ground corn cobs, etc. Should be installed with paved alley surface 8 feet wide for mechanical cleaning or washing.

- 8 Models all steel welded farm and feedlot gates
- 2 Models all steel welded head catch gate

grading out good for market. Green Valley Farms, owned in partnership by Leon Wilkerson and sons, is a dairy farm with 200 cows to supply milk for a jug milk plant. A major problem is keeping the supply of milk to the consumer, buying and selling cows to keep the production up.

On this farm of major interest was the way the manure was handled in three large lagoons and the feedlot area being washed down by water supplied by a pond above the barn. The manure in the lagoon is then used in an irrigation system to feed the land closest to the farm. The group was the guest of the family for lunch at the jug milk plant.

Another stop was on an incorporated farm operated by Dwight Rath, a fairly new milking setup for 300 milk cows and farming of 2,000 acres of corn, some land as far away as 50 miles. Rath pointed out the need to operate on need, not desire by the farm operator.

Last stop was to see the Mordell Allied farm dairy and calf raising practices. A very excel-
