

Fulton Grange 66 Holds Meeting

The first of a series of Lancaster County Subordinate Grange visitation programs with the theme "Promote Pennsylvania Products" was presented Monday night at the regular meeting of Fulton Grange 66 at their hall in Oakryn.

Mrs. Melvin C. Boyce, Lecturer of Colerain Grange 1667, presented a program on Cherries. The Lancaster Co. Pomona Grange chorus, under the direction of R. Clair Murphy and accompanied by Miss Mary Lou Wesley, sang "Don't Sit Under The Cherry Tree With Anyone But Me" and "In The Shade Of The Old Cherry Tree."

William Fredd, head of the Solanco Ag Department, spoke on "George Washington And How We Feel About Him In FFA." He spoke of the 5,000 acres Washington had acquired at an early age and how scientifically he operated his farm, the fine records he kept and how his farm was actually the first farm experimental station in the US although it was 70 years before the US officially opened their first experimental station. He said Solanco's FFA is the largest in the county.

Loran Brinton gave a reading "Ma's Old Galvanized Wash Tub"; vocal solo "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" by R. Clair Murphy.

Mrs. Richard Maule read a letter from Everett Weiser, president of the Pennsylvania Cherry Growers' Association, Asper, Adams Co., Pa., telling of the many varieties of cherries grown in our state and said that Pennsylvania ranks sixth in cherry production in the US and produces on the average of 9,000 tons of cherries annually. Pruning, fertilizing and sprays were discussed. A cherry queen is selected each year in the state.

Mrs. Loran Brinton conducted a quiz and the Pomona chorus sang "The Battle Hymn Of The Republic."

Richard Holloway, Master of Fulton Grange, presided at the business session when the announcement was made that Thomas Galbreath, Peach Bottom RD1, has been appointed by the State Grange Master, A. Wayne Readinger, to serve as Deputy State Master. His wife will serve as Deputy Junior Matron.

Alex Panik, Planning and Programming Engineer of Highway District 8, will speak at a public meeting at 8 p.m. March 15, 8 p.m. at Fulton Grange Hall. His topic will be "Highway Improvements In Lancaster County." His talk will be accompanied by visual aids. Someone from the county highway office will report on county road conditions and the repairs planned.

Mrs. Charles Reath announced the 1971 National Grange Sewing Contest and has applications for contestants which must be entered by April 30. Grange members and non-members sponsored by Grangers, over 12 years of age can enter. Any type dress or suit can be made and entered in the contest.

The Pennsylvania State Grange will hold a series of regional conferences for Masters, Lecturers, Secretaries, Junior Matrons, and chairmen of Women's Activities, Youth, Legislative and Membership committees and any other interested members. The afternoon sessions will be from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and the evening sessions will begin at 7 p.m. Everyone should bring a covered dish for the evening meal and their own place setting. The nearest meetings for this area will be held March 6 at Shermaneta Grange Hall, Perry Co., route 274 — three miles west of Duncannon and March 20 at Pioneer Grange Hall, Berks Co., Croll and Keller Sts., Tipton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris, Russellville Grange, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Harry Davis, Oxford Grange, Chester County, each gave a few remarks.

The film "Seedtime and Harvest" will be shown at the next meeting March 8. This meeting will be the deadline to receive applications in the current membership drive. First and second degrees will be conferred March 22.

The Junior Grange will conduct a paper drive at their March 8 meeting and are asking for contributions. They are asking for the following articles for their craft workshops: old greeting cards, calendar pictures, yarn, scraps of bonded material, old jewelry, artificial flowers and greens, dried weeds, pressed flowers and leaves.

CARE OF GARBAGE DISPOSERS — One appliance that's really missed when it's broken is a garbage disposer. So here are some tips to avoid breakdowns:

First of all, never pack food into your garbage disposer . . . drop it in, lightly. The blades need space to operate inside the shredding chamber, and packed-in food will impede them.

When using your disposer, run cold water into it. This will make vegetables crispy for speedy chopping. Cold water will also harden grease for chopping and flushing away. Warm water will melt the grease and send it into lower waste pipes where it can harden and clog drains.

Another thing, never use drain cleaners in a garbage disposer. The appliance is self-cleaning, and chemicals may corrode the shredding mechanism. If you have an odor in the disposer, you can get rid of it, easily, by grinding up an orange peel or a lemon peel.

Most disposers will grind nearly any kind of food, but check the manufacturer's instructions first before feeding your disposer fibrous materials such as corn husks, pea pods, and celery. Also, most disposers will grind up chicken bones and corn cobs if fed in very small amounts.

To get rid of viscous foods like cooked oatmeal, add vegetable peelings or dry bread crusts and mix them together thoroughly before putting them in the disposer.

Some things, however, should never be put in a disposer. These include plastic, paper, metal, china, glass, string, filter-tipped cigarettes and oyster and clam shells. These may jam the disposer or eventually mat the cutting blades.

A garbage disposer is a handy appliance to have. Take care of it so you'll have it when you need it.

HOME LAUNDERING TIPS— Automatic appliances have made wash day a lot easier than in grandmother's day. But the modern homemaker still needs a knowledge of good laundering methods to get best results.

For instance, it's a good idea to mark tags when they're removed from garments and store them in a file box in the laundry area. You can then refer to the tags for information on how to launder a specific item.

Also, laundry should be sorted into different loads that can be washed together under similar conditions of water temperature, washing time, agitation, and spin speeds. Non-colorfast or deep-toned clothing should be washed separately in warm or cool water.

White nylons and other white synthetics should only be washed with other white items. Lightly soiled articles should not be washed with heavily soiled items. And delicately-constructed items should not be washed with heavy-duty clothing.

Preparing the wash load should also include tying belts, closing zippers, and mending rips and tears. This will prevent further damage to clothes which may require extensive repairs later.

boiler; add butter. Drain pineapple, reserving juice, add 1 tablespoon pineapple juice to double boiler mixture. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly, about 7 minutes or until very thick. Pour into large bowl, stir in drained pineapple. Prepare topping mix according to package directions, or whip and sweeten cream. Carefully fold into cooked mixture along with sour cream, then fold in marshmallows, drained orange pieces and other fruit. Cover; refrigerate several hours or overnight. To serve, fill orange shells with salad — and top with garnish.

FRESH PEAR COMPOTE SUPREME
Wash pears, halve and core. Peel orange and remove sections. Place pear halves and orange sections in baking dish. Mix together equal amounts of light corn syrup and water. Highlight with whole cloves and cinnamon as desired. Pour over fruit until bottom of pan is completely covered. Cover dish and bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes until pears are tender. Baste occasionally with syrup during baking. Chill.

COLORFUL FRUIT COMBO
Gently combine red-skinned apple wedges with chopped pecans, orange and grapefruit sections, and chopped dates, and serve as a fruit compote. For a salad, add enough mayonnaise to fruit just to moisten; serve on lettuce. For a dessert, drizzle with honey-orange juice blend, top with sherbet.
