4:30 p.m.—Lancaster County Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association meeting, Brownstown Vo-tech school.
7:30 p.m.—Lancaster County Soil and Water Conservation District meeting, Farm and Home Center.

Friday, June 4
6:30 p.m.—Ephrata Young Farmers Ice Cream Social and Family recreation night, Earl Smoker farm.

Saturday, June 5
1971 National Chicken Cooking contest, Ocean City, Md.

Three panelists spoke on Federal Drug Administration rules on withdrawal of drugs from animal feeds at a meeting of the Veterinary-Nutrition Forum at the Lancaster Stock Yards Inn Wednesday night.

The panelists were Lee Boyd, director of feed control, American Feed Manufacturers Association, Washington, D. C., Walter Dunlap Jr., livestock broker, Walter M. Dunlap & Sons, Lancaster Stock Yards, and Dr. Ken Diehl, field veterinarian with the Animal Health Division, USDA, Harrisburg.

Panel moderator was Donald W. Parke, executive vice president, Pennsylvania Millers and Feed Dealers Association.

Boyd talked about the proposed certification of drug withdrawal, a proposed certificate which the farmer would give to the packer or buyer certifying that proper withdrawal time was observed. This is purely a voluntary program.

The farmer is not obligated to participate, but Boyd strongly urged farmers to comply with the rules. (Continued on Page 10)

Six Youths Are Named to Attend Cooperatives Summer Institute

Six youths have been named to represent Lancaster County at the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives Summer Institute at Shippensburg State College July 11 to 15.

The six were named winners of the Cooperative Business Education Program sponsored by the Lancaster Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

They are: Clair Witwer, 617 Strasburg Pike, Lancaster, Kenneth E. Grube, 917 Pinehill Road, Lititz; Debra A. Gregory, Lititz RD1; Linda Stoltzfus, Mount Joy RD1; Nelson E. Martin, East Earl RD1; and Donald Breneman, Strasburg RD1. Alternates named were Dale

Weiler, Elverson RD2, and Nelson Ray Weaver, Ephrata RD1. All delegates will meet at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 11 at the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative headquarters to obtain transportation to the Institute.

Winners were selected on the basis of a quiz on the cooperative way of doing business and an activities report filled out by the participants identifying them with school, community, church, and youth organizations.

These young leaders will be accompanied to Shippensburg by Jay W. Irwin, Associate Lancaster County agricultural agent, who will act as chaperone and resource person for the delegation.

The Institute program is designed to teach youth more about the free enterprise system in America, to help them in planning their future by pointing out career possibilities in agribusiness, and provide opportunities for individual leadership development.

Approximately 200 young adults, representing the best of over 4,000 participants in the annual P.A.F.C. youth education program, will attend the four-day event.

The Institute is a joint effort of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives, local coop council, and the College of Agriculture of Pennsylvania State University.

A total of 65 local boys and girls took part in this year's educational program.

Participating in a panel this week on federal drug withdrawal rules were the following: left to right, seated, Lee Boyd, of the American Feed Manufacturers Association; Dr. Ken Diehl, of the USDA

Animal Health Division; standing, Donald W. Parke, of the Pennsylvania Millers and Feed Dealers Association, and Walter Dunlap Jr., of Lancaster Stock Yards.

Layman to Head Co. Vo-Tech Program

Ralph M. Layman, principal of the Brownstown Vo-Tech School, Thursday night was named director of vocational education by the Lancaster County Vo-Tech Joint Committee.

His salary will be $18,000 a year and he will begin his duties in the next few days.

Dr. Harry K. Gerlach, county superintendent of schools, who recommended Layman's appointment to the Joint Committee, said he thinks Layman can draw together the operation of the three county vo-tech schools at Brownstown, Willow Street and Mount Joy.

Layman fills a vacancy created when Henry U. Walker, an assistant county school superintendent and director of the Vo-Tech Program, resigned last fall.

The new director is a native of Ulster, Bradford County, and a graduate of Ulster High School, Class of 1943. From June 2, 1943 to April 25, 1946 he served in the U.S. Navy.

Ralph M. Layman
New Vo-Tech Head

Layman, 46, received his B.S. degree in vocational agriculture from Penn State University in 1950 and his M.S. in industrial and vocational education from

Penn State in 1967. He also studied vocational education administration at Temple University.

He has his certification in vocational agriculture, vocational industrial education and director of vocational education.

Prior to becoming principal at the Brownstown Vo-Tech School on Jan. 1, 1970, he served in the Solanco School District as vocational agriculture teacher and department chairman from 1963 to 1969 and was assistant principal from 1966-67.

Layman also was a graduate assistant in vocational agriculture at Penn State from 1961 to 1962 and a vocational agriculture teacher in the Brookville Area School from 1950 to 1961 and 1962 to 1963.

He is married to the former Miriam Drumm, who teaches first grade in Quarryville Elementary School and they have three children, Peter, 14; John, 12, and Jim, 11. The Laymans live at 310 Hillcrest Ave., Quarryville.

Editor's Note: See editorials, Max Smith column and Rev. Lawrence W. Althouse column on Page 20.

This page, which we call the editorial page, has been permanently moved to the fourth page of Section Two. While it has a new location, the page itself is the same as before.

It's easy to find. It's in the same location as before, except it's in Section Two instead of Section One.

The change also allows some of our markets, particularly the poultry markets, to be carried on page four. Markets now are on pages two, three and four.
