

State Craft Fair Slated At Millersville

A dozen demonstrations or more will be going on each minute during the four days of the 24th annual State Craft Fair, August 4 through 7 at Millersville State College, Millersville.

Philip A. Richards, of Marticville, demonstrations chairman, has enlisted over 50 members of the Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen from all parts of the state to show "how-to-do-it" in their specialties.

"Very often, a visitor to a craft event finds little going on when he gets there," Richards explains. "We're trying to avoid the 'Out to Lunch' or 'Back in 15 Minutes' syndrome. Our craftsmen are on a schedule, and we aim to have as many as 15 different kinds of crafts demonstrated throughout each day."

Miss Nancy Hanks, president of the National Endowment for the Arts, will open the Craft Fair at 10 a.m. on August 4. Hours will be 10 a.m.-9 p.m. August 4-5-6, and 10 a.m. on August 7.

Women seem to predominate in some crafts which will be demonstrated, and men in others.

The distaff side has all the spinners, who will take part in a spinning bee under chairmanship of Janet Eshelman, of Rohrerstown. But men rule the roost in blacksmithing, with Jere Martin, of Marietta, leading the group.

Most of the weavers demonstrating will be women, but at least one will be a male—Robert Stafford, of Philadelphia, a past state Guild president. Among the women weaving will be Ruth Dewees and June Segermark, both of Philadelphia; Florence Landis, Linda Anstine and Kerry Magni, all of York; and Helen Weit, Ephrata.

Potters, who will take part in a "derby" with their wheels, will include Max Ameigh, Williamsport; Rinny Stabler, York; Paul Bernhardt, Philadelphia; Karl Schantz, Fairless Hills, and Lotta Peters, Philadelphia. Julie Jensen, Kinterville, and Jerry Kaplan, Pittsburgh, will do slab building of pottery.

Macrame specialists will include Dorothy Haack, Philadelphia; Marie Winton, Williamsport, and Frederica Feely, Pittsburgh.

Some of the unusual demonstrations follow:

Batik, Marilyn Seeling, Williamsport; rush seating, Lewis DeLano, Lancaster; copper cut-outs, Luther Epler, Reading; raising bowls from flat pewter, Caroline Hartzler, York; leatherwork, Mary Jane Green, Orwigsburg; enameling, Donna Groek, Pittsburgh; lace making, Elizabeth Kackenmeister, Williamsport; metal bowls, Robert Hostetter, Lancaster; tinwork, Howard Dautrick, Reading.

Jewelry making will be shown by Walter Groek, Pittsburgh; Ada Smith, Harrisburg; Florence Odling, Philadelphia, and Miriam Elsbree, Wallingford. Bookbinding demonstrators will be Charles H. Morey and Cal Granger, of Doylestown.

Wood turners will be led by Palmer Sharpless, Newtown RD, state Guild president, and Paul Eshelman, Rohrerstown, Fair chairman. Lawrence J. Hirneisen, Reinholds, will also turn. Wood carvers will include Joseph Winton, Williamsport; Edward Haack, Philadelphia; and Clayton Meyers, Arthur Shoemaker, and Addison Dusinger, all of Lancaster.

Numerous other crafts will also be demonstrated.

Dutch Days Declared

Governor Milton J. Shapp has declared August 24 to 29 as Pennsylvania Dutch Days in recognition of the outstanding program held each year at Hershey.

Governor Shapp noted the program has been successful for the past 22 years in promoting good relations between Pennsylvania Dutch communities and other citizens throughout the nation.
