

Poultry Market Reports

Eastern Pa. and N.J.

HENS

Wednesday, January 26

Prices unchanged to ¼ cent lower on light type hens. Demand fair with most processors continuing to operate at near capacity except where occasional load reported cancelled due to difficult weather conditions in western New York State. Advance offerings slightly less than past several week though continue heavy in some quarters. Offerings of heavy type hens generally short of a fair call. Prices paid at farm: Light type hens 5-6¼ mostly 6½-6¾ in Pa. mostly 5½-6 in N.J. Heavy type hens 16-17.

New York Eggs

Thursday, January 27

Prices generally unchanged. Undertone more unsettled under increasing offerings. Buying activity especially light as most traders await further developments before making new commitments. In latest developments, export activity on mediums and smalls is at a stand still. Carton activity is fair but totally lacks sufficient movement to balance supplies with current requirements.

River of No Return

Idaho's Salmon River is called the "River of No Return." It flows through one of the longest canyons in the world. It is difficult for boats to travel on the Salmon with the current and they cannot travel at all against the current.

COULD BE the centerline painter on this road near Darlington, Wis., really had the shakes. Actually, for those who haven't guessed already, it's the shadow cast by a telephone cable.

THE FAMILY FARM... CAN IT ENDURE THE FUTURE?

Dairy farmers' net disposable income is declining every year as costs of production increase faster than prices paid to milk producers.

Markets are becoming fewer for sale of raw product due to cost-price squeeze experienced by independent milk handlers.
