Farm Building Meet Planned

Building dairy barns is a complicated task, and mistakes can be costly Farmers who'd like to learn more about handling construction problems are invited to a meeting on construction details and materials to be conducted by Gerald Bodman, agricultural engineer from Penn State

Bodman has much practical experience in the construction of agricultural buildings, and is also a qualified engineer Farmers attending the meeting will learn about the many alternatives to be considered when planning farm construction. They'll also be given a check list of things that should be considered before building contracts are signed and construction begun.

The meeting will be held at the Farm and Home Center on Monday, February 19, starting at 8 00 p m

Stock Yards Eyed For Cattle Futures Delivery

The Lancaster Stock Yards are being considered as a possible delivery point for cattle being trade on the futures market.

William G. McCoy, president of the Lancaster Livestock Exchange, and a vice president of the McCoy Cattle Co. said that if Lancaster could be designated as a delivery point for cattle futures it would, "add impetus to the trading of live beef cattle in this area"

In effect, such a designation would mean that speculators in beef cattle futures, could have their contracts filled in Lancaster as well as the western cattle markets

McCoy said the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, which handles the futures, considers a

> Sorting Clothes For Laundering

When laundering, Mrs. Ruth Ann Wilson, Extension clothing specialist at The Pennsylvania State University, suggests you sort clothes to separate items that could in some way damage other garments in the wash Some points to consider when sorting clothes are: color, type of fabric, garment construction, amount and kind of soil and size of item potential delivery point based on the facilities and the volume of cattle traded. "I think we have both," McCoy said.

A futures delivery point in Lancaster was discussed Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Lancaster Livestock Exchange. A slate of officers was reelected at the meeting, including McCoy, president; Richard Hoober, of J.M. Hoober Inc., vice president, and Donald Ober, of Walter M. Dunlap and Sons, secretary-treasurer.
