Greater Fuel Import Need Predicted by Industrialist

Russia will be the only major world power in the coming decade that will be self-sufficient in energy sources in the opinion of John G. McLean, chairman of the National Petroleum Council's Committee on U.S. Energy Outlook.

"By 1985 the United States may have to import approximately 40 to 55 per cent of its oil requirements from foreign sources. Most of the additional imports will have to come from the Middle East and from member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries," said Mr. McLean, who is also chairman and chief executive officer of Continental Oil Co.

Most of the major industrial nations of the Free World will be facing essentially the same problems as the United States, he observed. "We shall have to remember that our friends in Western Europe and Japan will likewise be heavily dependent upon the Middle East for their oil requirements.

tion of "strong programs to reduce waste in the consumption of energy throughout our entire society." He noted that "our economy will certainly experience rising energy costs" as the United States moves from a period of abundance to growing scarcity of energy materials.

Nevertheless, he declared, the consumption of energy should be encouraged, providing it is used efficiently for socially desirable ends, because "it inevitably increases the overall efficiency of our economy."

"The diplomatic and national security aspects of this whole situation demand a great deal of attention," he asserted.

The National Council on Alcoholism estimates that from five to ten per cent of any given group of workers in the nation suffer from progressive alcoholism.

Mr. McLean urged the ini-
