Society 10

Farm Women Society 10 held the July meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Hodecker, 907 Rohrerstown Road. Program feature was hobbies, ranging from exquisite handwork and specialty cooking to making new friends and writing letters.

Mrs. Raymond Northeimer led devotions, based on the theme "Do unto others as you would have them do to you."

During the business portion of the meeting, conducted by Miss Ida Kinkel, a monetary gift was sent to LARC (Lancaster Association for Retarded Children) and to the Arthritis Foundation.

Members made plans to attend the board meeting and family picnic held by the Lancaster County Society of Farm Women August 1 at the Central Manor Campmeeting Grounds, Washington Boro RD1.

The next regular meeting of Society 10 is planned for 1:30 p.m. September 1 at the home of Mrs. John Habecker, 2301 Spring Valley Road. Mrs. Jacob Evans will be in charge of devotions. Each member is expected to deliver a "sentence sermon." Each member also is requested to bring a piece of antique glassware and tell its origin and history.

An example of a sentence

Save the cardboard rolls from the center of toilet tissue. Fill them with candy, whistles and other trinkets, wrap in paper appropriate to the occasion, tie the ends and set them out at children's parties.

For families who sleep in a station wagon while on a camping trip, take along a window cleaner that make a white film over the glass. Coat the windows at night, wipe off in the morning.

Have You Heard

Everyone involved in produce marketing takes a chance that he may not be paid for produce sold.

Helping him to get the payment he deserves, to cut the risk, to reduce unfair competition, and speed delivery of these perishables is a federal law — the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act. This law is administered by the Fruit and Vegetable Division, of the Agricultural Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. The PACA has set up a code of ethical business practices for those who market fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables.

This Act provides a means for preventing and settling the disputes that inevitably arise in this fast-moving, high-risk business. PACA officials work with both buyers and sellers in mediating their disputes, helping them arrive at informal agreements so that any load of produce in dispute can move into marketing channels and on to consumers promptly.

While the bulk of produce disputes handled by AMS are settled informally (945 in 1972 representing $2.2 million in claims), some complaints must be settled through a more formal procedure. Last year USDA issued 327 formal orders under PACA, settling claims of more than $1.2 million. The PACA experts also gave producers advice on their marketing transaction in thousands of instances to minimize contract disputes.
