Use Caution with Cosmetics

Cosmetics are used on the skin and hair. These are sensitive areas which can be easily infected if mistreated, reminds Mrs. Ruth Ann Wilson, Extension clothing specialist at The Pennsylvania State University. She urges you to note warnings on cosmetic labels and follow instructions carefully. If you believe you've been misled or injured by a cosmetic, report the facts to the nearest Food and Drug Administration office or to your local or state regulatory agency. Seek medical help if you need it. You should also save the rest of the product or container and report what happened to the packer or distributor. If you have a skin infection - see your doctor. Don't rely on a cosmetic to cover it up.

SAVE ENERGY AND MONEY

You can substantially lower your electric bills every month by simply investing in a timer for your air conditioner. Everyone wants to return home from work or a shopping outing to a cool house. But leaving your air conditioner running in an unoccupied dwelling will only waste money and energy.

The engineers at Emerson Quiet Kool point out that you can keep your cool in a crisis and save money by simply installing a suitably sized timer into the circuit between the air conditioner and the electricity outlet.

Here's how it works: When you leave for work in the morning, leave your air conditioner operating but switch it off at the timer. Then set the timer to switch the air conditioner back on at about two hours before you expect to return (the time will vary—that depends on size of unit, room conditions, etc.). When you arrive home, your room will be cool and because the air conditioner has not been running continually all day, you will have saved energy and money.

There are many other ways to get more from your air conditioner according to Emerson Quiet Kool.

Make sure you wash your filter at least once a month. A dirty filter causes reduced air flow. This reduced air flow can cause unit efficiency to drop as much as 6 percent and increase your utility bills accordingly.

Should the filter become overly clogged, the evaporator coil may ice up, leading to complete loss of cooling.

With this in mind, if you are just about to purchase an air conditioner, you should consider a unit with an easy to remove slide out filter.

Early in the season, clean the condenser and evaporator coils. To clean the evaporator, remove the decorative plastic front and the filter. Then vacuum clean the coil surface. To clean the condenser coil, run the vacuum cleaner brush attachment over the rear of the air conditioner. Be sure to turn off and unplug the unit before cleaning the coils.

Finally, keep blinds and curtains drawn during the hottest parts of the day, and keep doors and windows shut.
