Ready To Help

this summer. Although Don was not eligible to go on to the American Conference in Manhattan, Kansas nontheless he finished just points away from being one of the top Co-op students in the State.

Leadership is also one of Don's qualities as he has served his chapter and county FFA as an officer. He was also a delegate to the FFA Activities Week where he helped revise and amend the State FFA constitution.

Along with his regular project work, Don has also been busy showing his vegetables and dairy animals at the area fairs.

He has shown the Reserve Champion Dairy Animal at the Ephrata Fair along with award winning garden produce and hay.

Don has also taken honors at the Pa. Jr. Dairy Show in Harrisburg with this Ayrshire cows.

Although his FFA and farm work keeps him busy, Don admits that he likes sports and plays when ever he can. He has been on the FFA volleyball and softball teams.

When asked what he would like to do when he finishes high school, Don remarked that he would like to farm but to also help other underprivileged farmers in other nations.

"So often we in this country take things for granted," he remarked, "but in other countries farmers are struggling for everything we find so easy to have."

"I would like to help those people in some way, although I'm not sure just how I can."

Don's leadership abilities and his concern for others is truly commendable for a young man his age.

Don will be applying for the Keystone Farming Degree this Fall and if he should win the award for outstanding FFA work, he would be the fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Weaver to have won the award. That would make the Weaver's one of the very few couples to ever have had four sons win such an honor.

The chances for five Keystone Farmers in one family is however pretty good as Don's younger brother has expressed a desire to work like his brothers and hopefully be number five.

Don began his dairy projects after winning the County FFA Chain Calf a few years ago. Since then he has been building up his own herd of Ayrshires.
